"Involvement of the students . . .

meant the individual action of participating in one's personal interests. Students giving their attention to the ecology movement or political issues of the day were just as active as those attending sports events and dances," commented Kathy Chambers, president of the 1970 fall Student Body Cabinet.

To instigate involvement during the fall semester, events such as special mini courses, the Homecoming Dance, "Zig Zag," open Student Forum meetings, speakers, and films were presented by the Cabinet. An assembly welcoming the freshmen, and the sponsoring of selected students at political or ecological conferences were new this year. With the establishment of a larger Safety Squad, the United Good Neighbors Drive collected $237.35. The second annual "Renaissance" was accompanied by language and speech events, a jazz session, a film festival, art exhibits and a hootenanny.

Spring Cabinet

for learning which is conducive to study," was the overall goal of spring Student Body President Tom McLaughlin for his cabinet. The plans for accomplishing this included the adoption of a credit-no credit option for all classes, elimination of freshmen study halls, a written school policy concerning assemblies, and a school policy statement regarding censorship of written school publications.

Student Forum meetings were held during school, rather than after, in an attempt to give more students the opportunity to voice their opinions on school matters such as pass-no pass grading and teacher-student relationships, as well as voicing individual complaints.

The Judicial Board, which dealt with student behavior and constitutional problems, was headed by Chairman Matt Chan and consisted of Libby Clark, Lisa Whitehead, Mike Hepburn, and Brian McLaughlin.

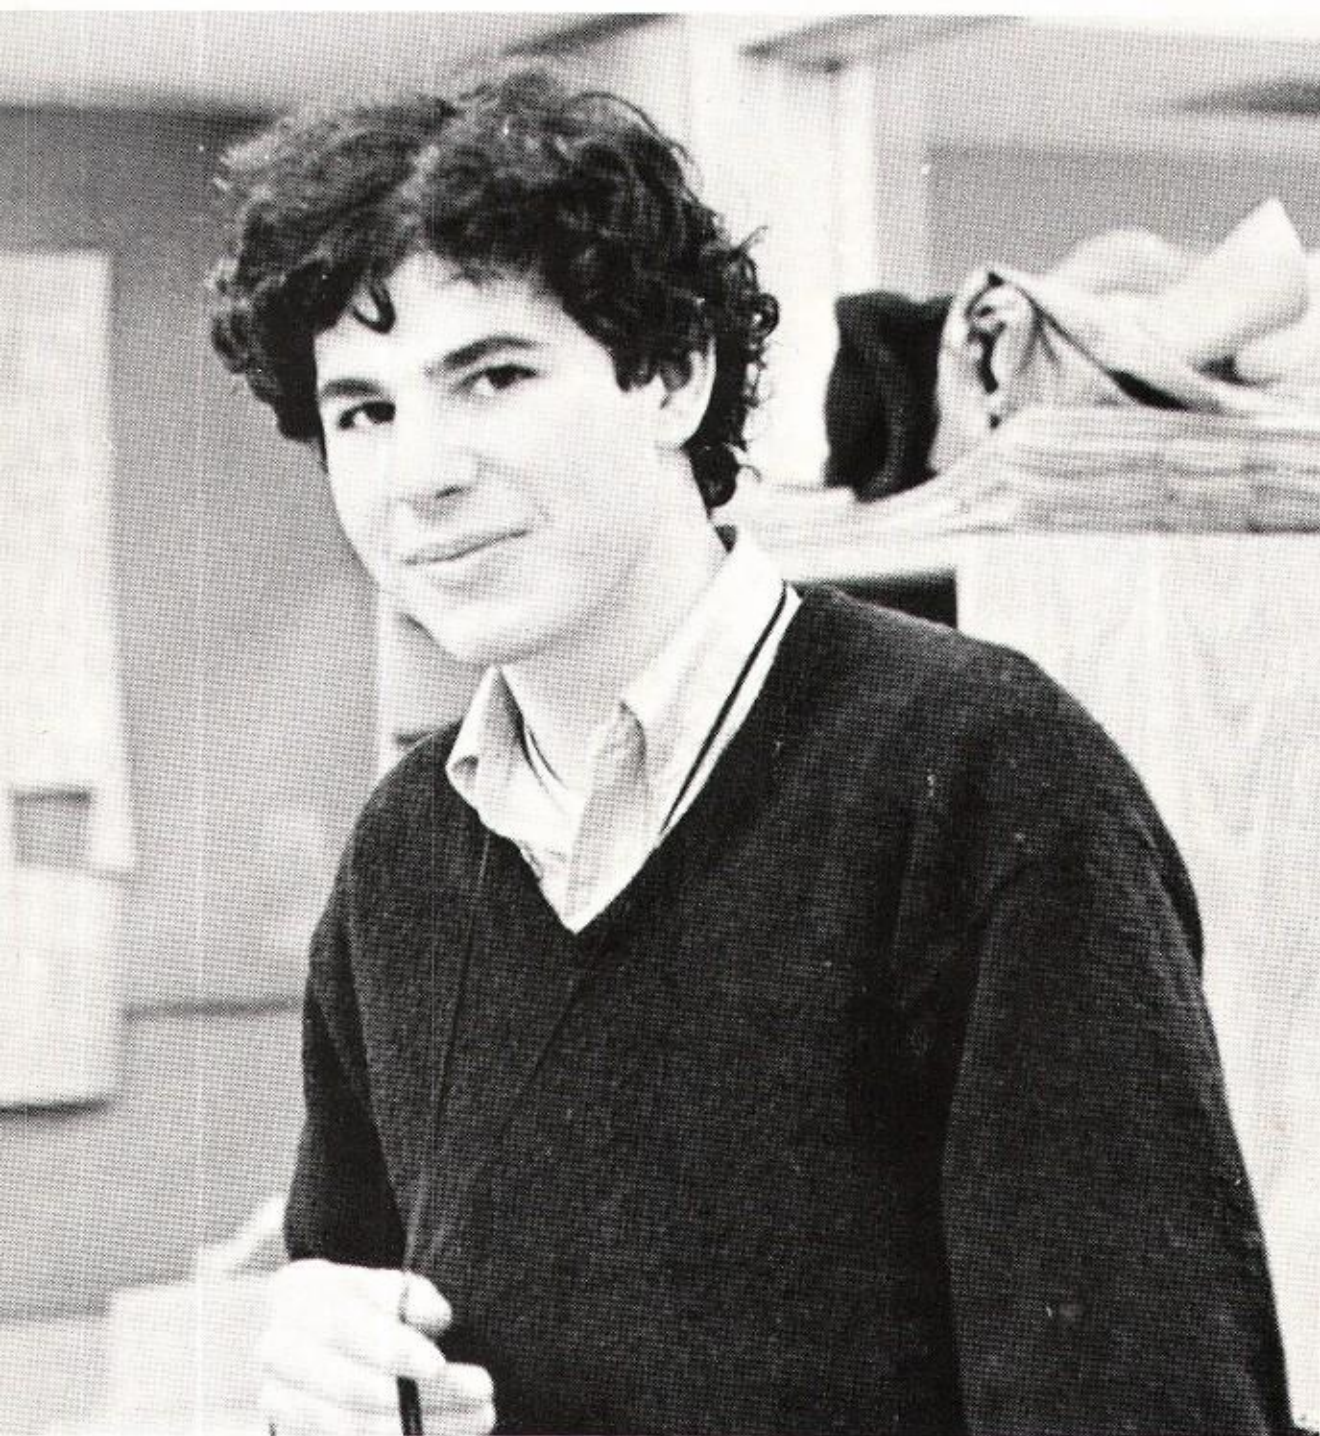

Cindy Blackwelder's Social Activities Board was made up of Charlotte Kasahara, Debbie Robertson, Barb Schiewe, and Jeanette Weiss who were in charge of planning the spring S.B. dance and all money raising activities. One of the goals of the spring Social Activities Board, with the assistance of Alan Locke, fund raising chairman, was to raise $500 for spring functions.

Many service projects helped . . .

involve more students in this year's Girls' League-Knights' activities. The Odd Fellows Home for the elderly was again chosen as the recipient of most of their efforts. "Our visits with the residents of the home proved to be extremely satisfying to all of us who participated," related Kim Yada, fall Girls' League president.

Other service projects included collecting canned foods for the needy, helping the P.T.A. with Back-to-School Night, and gathering reusable toys for the Red Cross. The traditional Big-Little Sister Party was held in September to welcome the freshmen, while a Simplicity Style Show, followed by a tea in the library, highlighted Girls' League activities in October. Both Girls' League and Knights' cabinets sponsored Tolo Week in November. "B.C.", the annual girl-ask-boy dance concluded the Tolo Week activities.

Knights' fall projects were limited this year, according to fall President Matt Chan "because of a lack of cooperation from the students."

Spring G.L.-Knights Cabinets

Helping collect canned goods . . .

In a city-wide drive, "Operation Second Wind," was one of the first projects undertaken by the spring Girls' League and Knights' cabinets. This was followed by others such as helping make baseball and track schedules, working with F.I.S.H. (an organization to help the needy), ushering for the spring musical, "Pajama Game", and visiting the Odd Fellows Home.

The cabinets met individually once a week and together once a month. Both held traditional Father-Daughter and Father-Son Banquets. Girls' League and Knights' Week was held the week of April 19-23, and concluded with a dance.

Committees

Problems studied by students . . .

through various committees, provided a new approach to student involvement in Cleveland's school affairs.

Among the committees in existence this year were the Intra-School Government Committee, which was organized in the spring of 1970, the Campus Committee, and the Judicial Board. The Intra-School Government Committee, composed of students and teachers, dealt with all student problems referred to it from the Cabinet. The Campus Committee, was composed of two students and several parents and teachers. The main objective was to investigate the possibility of making Powell Park part of the Cleveland campus. The Judicial Board reviewed cases brought by the students, the vast majority of which dealt with the interpretation of the recently revised Constitution.

JUDICIAL BOARD. Lisa Whitehead, Brian McLaughlin, Gunner Gunderson, John Hoffnagel.

Administrators

of the administrative staff provided the leadership for the operation and functioning of Cleveland this year. Mr. Clifford Skinner, principal, Mr. Floyd Harmon, curriculum vice-principal, and Miss Helen Bowers, administrative vice-principal, once again represented the ruling force as head administrators. Also heading the staff as an administrative vice-principal was Mr. Luke Fiorante, a new addition to CHS, whose last position was that of administrative assistant at Grant. Administrative assistants Mr. Gary Crook and Mr. Kevin Stewart completed the staff.

Mr. Skinner, Mr. Harmon, and Mr. Fiorante were the three administrative members of the Cleveland Cabinet. "The Cleveland Cabinet was formed to involve more students, parents and teachers in school operations," explained Mr. Skinner, Cabinet chairman. "In view of the fact that this is only the second year of operation, the Cabinet has made especially valuable contributions through its Curriculum Committee work. When needs are identified, the Cabinet will strive to satisfy them," Mr. Skinner concluded.

Special Services

Age old problems were solved . . .

by the endeavors of the counseling staff. Counselors went to individual classrooms to discuss the new semester courses, which simplified forecasting. This year's staff included Mr. Frank Frangipani, Mr. Charles Roberts, Mr. Jerry Gatto, Mrs. Roberta Boddy, Mrs. Gloria Sandles, Mrs. Virginia Davis and Miss Hannah Larsen. Miss Larsen, new to CHS, headed the Curriculum Committee. "Part of the Committee's function is to act upon the recommendations of the Cabinet in order to plan for the needs of students," explained Miss Larsen.

Extracurricular activities within the school were supervised and coordinated by Miss Martha Ireland, activities director. Mr. Burt Redick, attendance counselor, checked and verified student absences. A big help in carrying out the plans of college-bound students was Mrs. Helen Mason, college coordinator.

Opening Dance

Bright strobe lights accented . . .

the traditional Homecoming Dance which drew a large crowd to the Cleveland gym. An original theme, "Zig Zag", was chosen by the Social Activities Board.

Strobe lights and a false ceiling of pink and navy crepe paper created the setting as the "Soul Masters" provided the music. Some couples danced while others preferred to sit and enjoy the music.

The dance, held Oct. 8, concluded a week of United Good Neighbors fund raising activities. Because of this, a new method of selecting the Homecoming Queen was initiated. A container for each princess was placed in the cafeteria during the week prior to the dance. The princess who received the largest amount of contributions was named queen. "This not only gave the entire student body a chance to select their queen, but also was the most profitable activity of the UGN Drive," said Tammy Ternahan, second vice president.

Jon Raskin and his date Gayle Peters listen intently to the music of the "Soul Masters".

Informally dressed students dance to the music, each person using his own technique.

HOMECOMING COURT: Roberta Wong, Bruce Wong, Lynn Ferguson, Sam Warfield, Debbie Lyonais, Jim Fuller, Sue Luthy, Mike Gattucio, Cheryl Meeker, Jim Peterson, Olivia Dorsey, Gary Price.

Jan David and Bill Simpson were one of many couples caught "grooving" to the music of the "Soul Masters" in the Cleveland gym at the traditional opening dance, "Zig Zag", held Oct. 8.

Dreams changed into reality . . .

on July 17 when Mayra Fernanadez, 17, of Guatemala learned she was one of 29 students chosen to represent her country in the United States. The announcement was particularly gratifying to Mayra since she had applied for the scholarship twice before.

Mayra, living with junior Connie Butler and her family, described her impression of America as, "Everything is so wonderful." While at Cleveland, Mayra participated in gymnastics and was elected senior class Girls' League representative. As a representative of her country Mayra gave several speeches to various service clubs in the Portland metropolitan area.

Seniors Kate Gruetter and Darlene Craighead were chosen last year as Cleveland's representatives to India and Afghanistan, respectively. "It's hard to get used to different people's ways and habits but, generally, it was a most fantastic experience, said Kate.

Senior Darlene Craighead uses a book to help explain her experiences in Afghanistan.

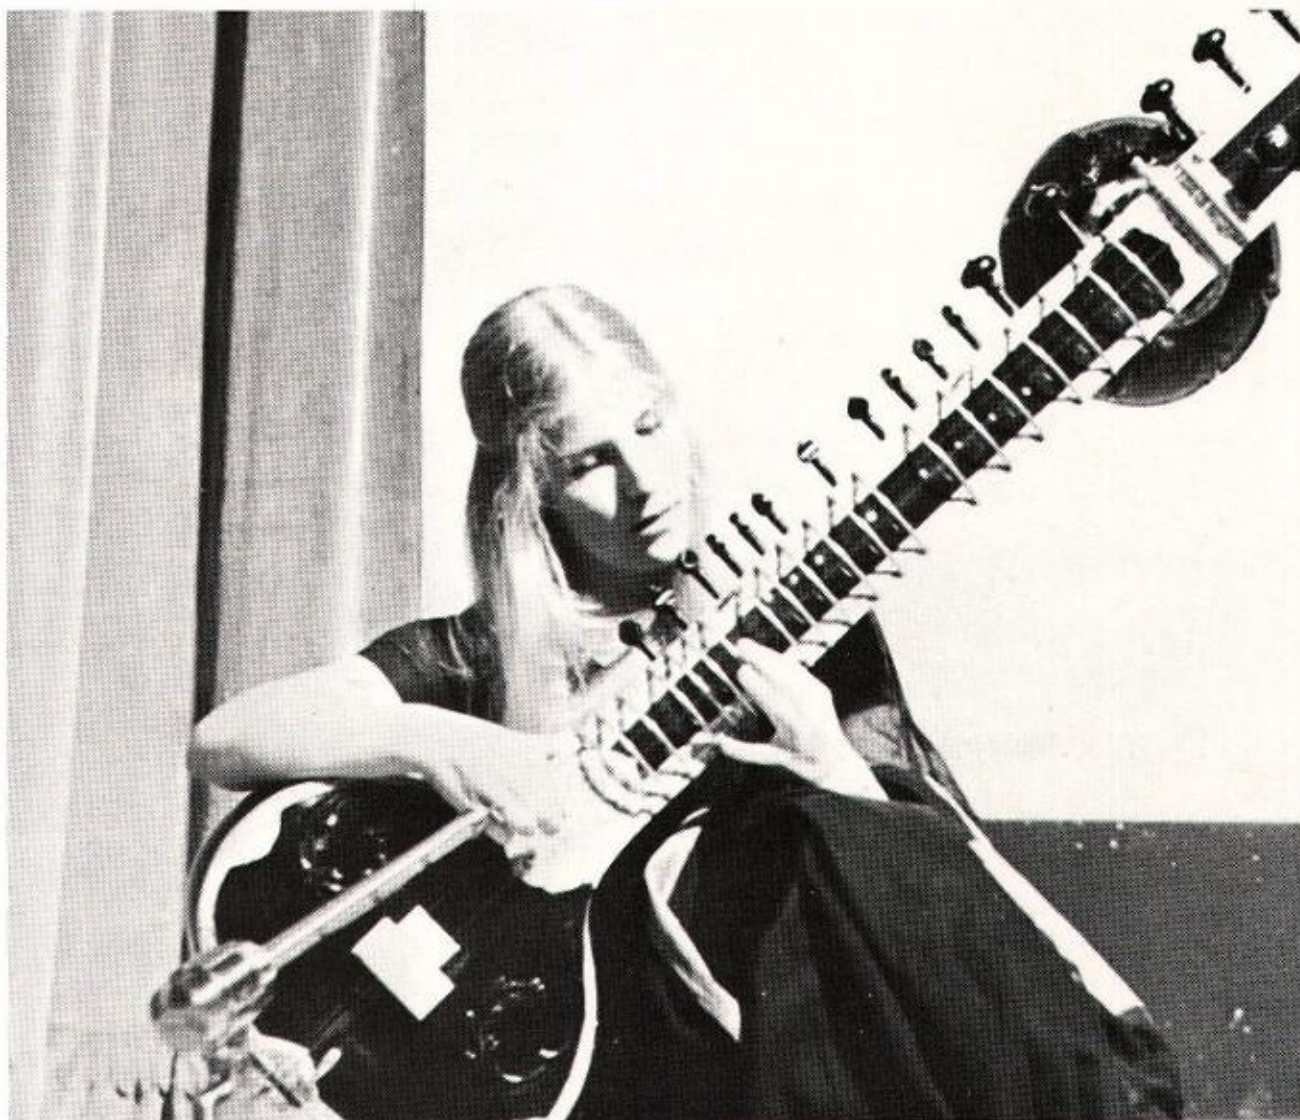

Mayra Fernandez, along with her classmates, Becky Hart, Bruce MacNeill, Jon Schlifer, and John McDonald concentrate intently on a discussion about drugs in her American problems class.

Mayra Fernandez, describes to Mrs. Marion Arnett, Spanish teacher, and junior Connie Butler how decoratively colored eggs are used as a form of celebration in a Guatemalan festival.

Mayra Fernandez, with the aid of her American sister, Connie Butler, uses the library.

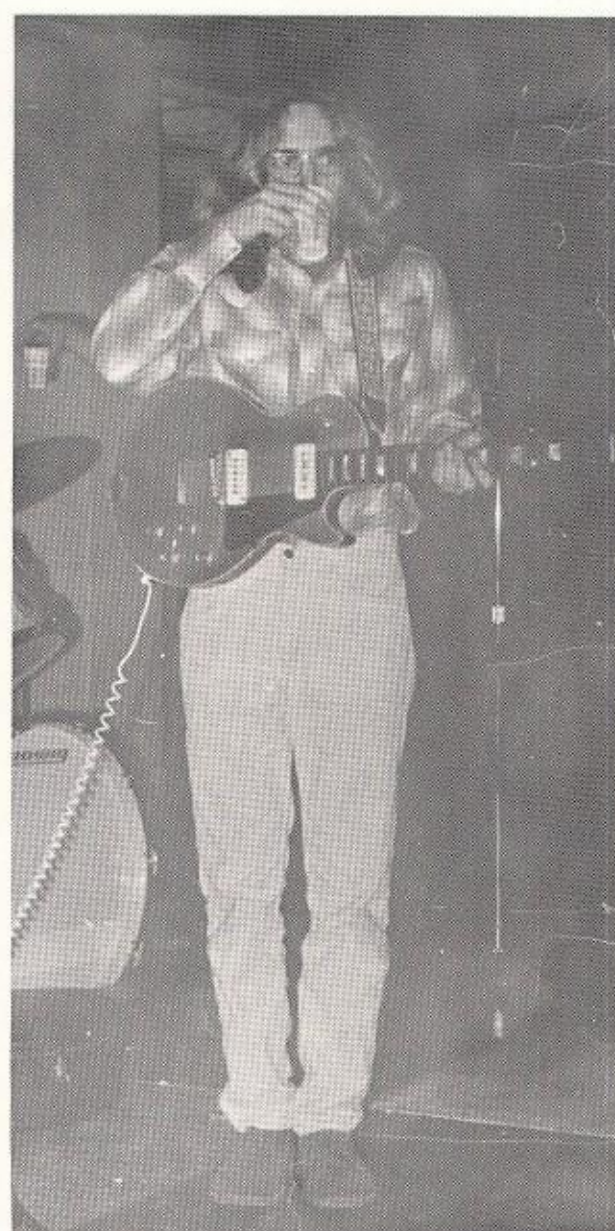

Senior Kate Gruetter concentrates on producing the quiet sounds of the Sitar, a skill that she acquired while living in Madras, India as a participant in the AFS exchange program.

Spring senior class representative, Mayra Fernandez discusses her home life in Guatemala at the fall Girls' League Big-Little Sister Party as fall historian Christy White looks on.

TOLO COURT: Donna White, Carolyn Rosendahl, Tami Douglass, Sue Gray.

Guitarist Doug Hopping

TOLO COURT: Mark Brown, Karl Leaverton, Bob Persons, Tom McColloch.

'Caveman' court reigned over . . .

"B.C.," the annual girl-ask-boy dance. The gym was decorated with a false ceiling of paper vines and dinosaur cartoons on the walls along with a large cardboard box dinosaur in the middle of the dance floor.

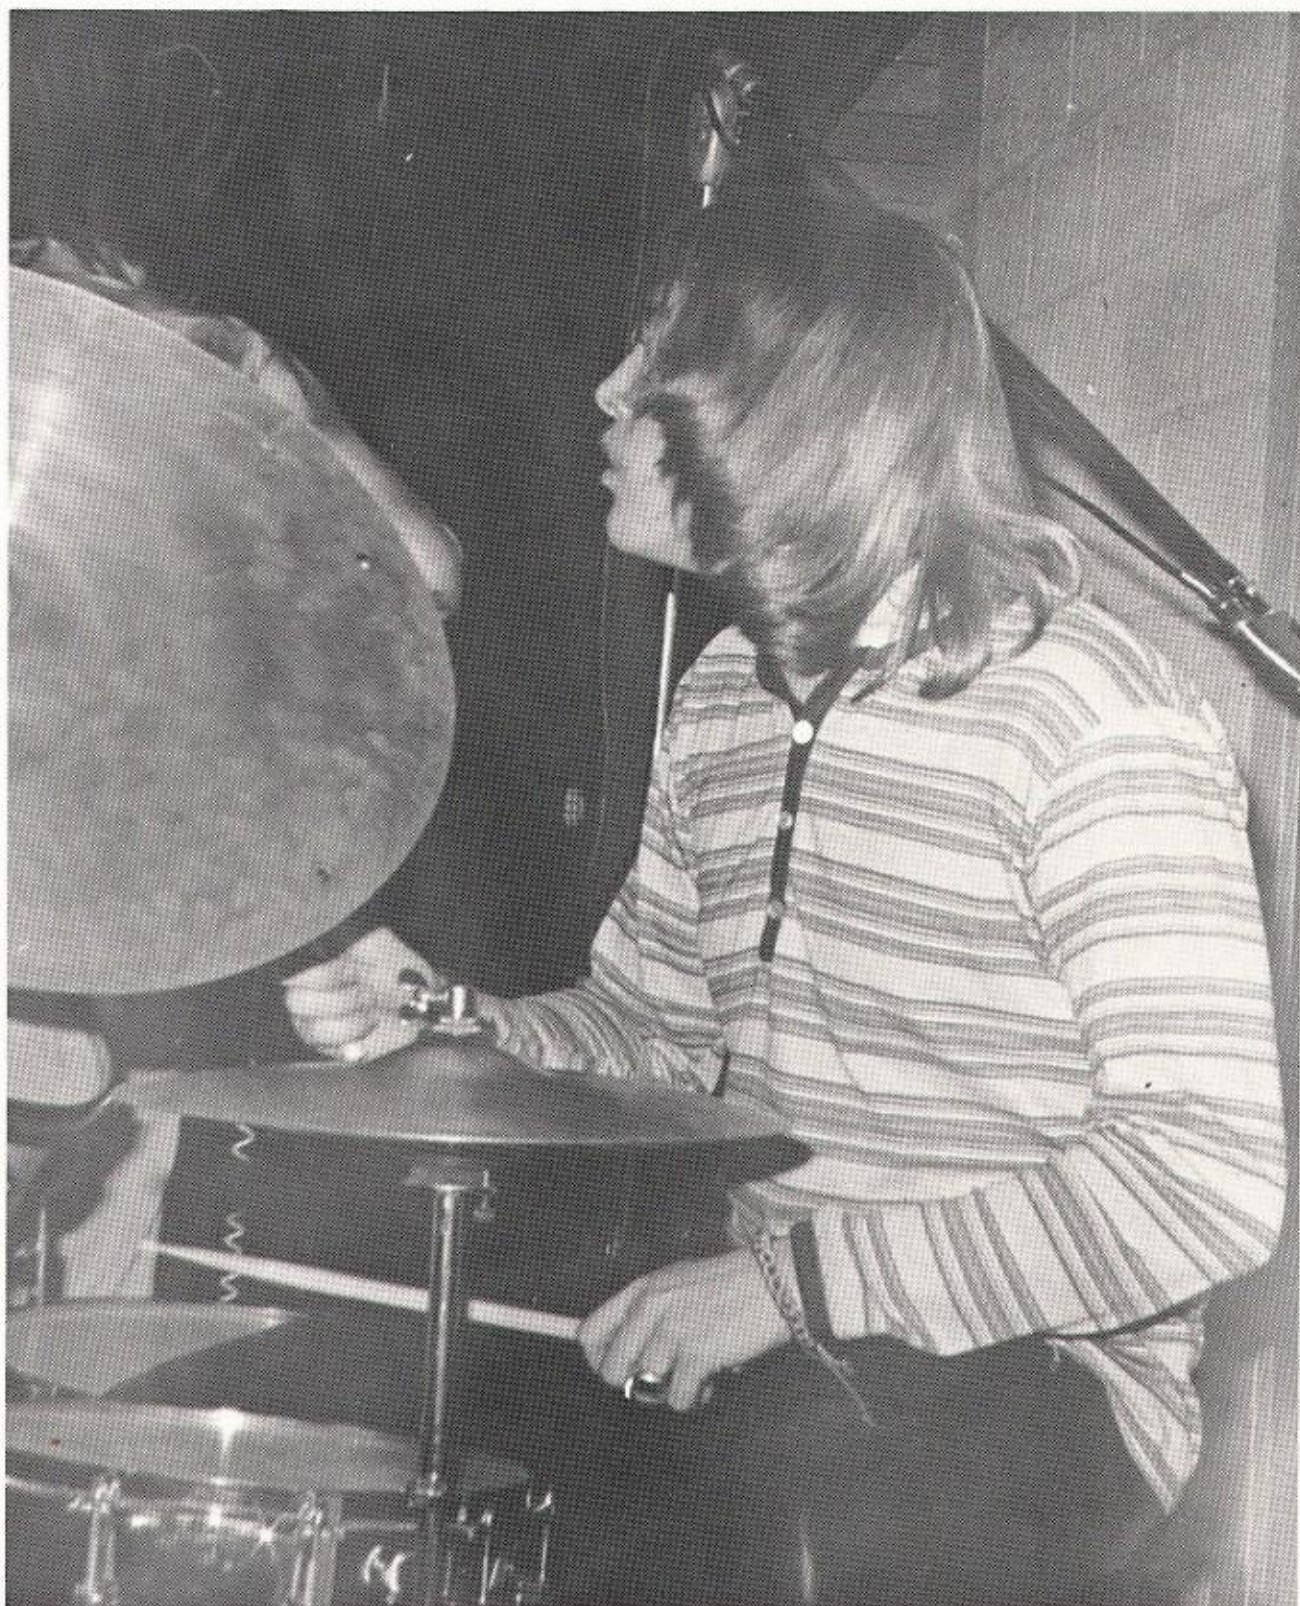

There was a girl and boy court this year instead of the all boy court used in previous years. The court was composed of seniors King Tom McColloch and Sue Gray; junior Bob Persons and Tami Douglass; sophomores Mark Brown and Carolyn Rosendahl, and freshmen Karl Lev-erton and Queen Donna White.

Tolo Week, sponsored by the Girls' League and Knights' cabinets, began on Monday with an assembly. A baking contest was held on Tuesday. Wednesday was Inside-Out Day when students were to wear their clothes inside out. Thursday was Mr. Irresistible Day when the girls couldn't talk to the boys, and Friday a Red Cross canned food drive was held. The dance concluded the week's activities.

Emma Aukamp (Kathy Herman) complains to Mama (Laurie Hagler) after her father tore her dress because she disobeyed him, while, in return, Mama tries to make excuses for his actions.

Papa (Bob Gardner) surrenders his gun minutes before he is taken to prison for murder.

Emma (Kathy Herman) and her brother Jake (Brian McLaughlin) discuss their plans.

Fall Play

was portrayed in "Papa is All," the fall production of Cleveland's drama department. Four weeks of work on both the script and the set went into the performance, which ran for three nights, Oct. 23-25. The play, written by Patterson Greene, was directed by Mrs. Bevins Stocking and student Jean Freeman.

The drama concerned conflicts within a Pennsylvania Dutch family, who were practioners of the Mennonite religion, which stressed simplicity, peace, and obedience to one's conscience. Two young adults in the story were attempting to free themselves from an over conservative, tyrannical father, so that they might live their own lives in a more modern world.

Only six actors composed the unusually small cast of characters. Senior Bob Gardner portrayed a bearded, burly, club-footed man in his early 50's. Laurie Hagler was cast in the lead role as Mama Aukamp, a gentle yet sturdy woman with a deep religious conviction. Kathy Herman acted the part of the Aukamp's 20 year old daughter Emma, while Brian McLaughlin played their 18 year old son. Ruth Roberts portrayed Mrs. Yoder, and Bob Clouse was cast as Brendal.

Mrs. Yoder (Ruth Roberts) babbles endlessly about the latest village gossip, of which Emma's date to the theatre with a local workman, without Papa Aukamp's knowledge, is included.

Renaissance

Devotion to medieval culture . . .

and knowledge was the purpose of Renaissance II, during the week of Oct. 26-31. The revival of interest in the Middle Ages was portrayed by the speech, drama, language, and art departments. Art exhibits, jam sessions, a film festival, and folk dancing helped involve students in unusual areas of interests.

Soccer, kite flying, buck-buck, volleyball, jump roping, and croquet contributed to the transformation of Powell Park into the Medieval Fair, a new feature of Renaissance. A human maze was an added attraction to the Fair along with the festival dress of many students.

Saturday morning, twelve students participated in the Renaissance bike ride. Starting at 9:45 a.m., the cyclists travelled 30 miles in two hours to reach their destination of McIver Park, site of Vortex a month earlier.

A Halloween night dance brought Renaissance Week to an end. Orange and black decorations, along with haystacks and pumpkins set the mood for the evening as music was provided by the "Notary Sojac."

Hoping for another point, June Seid shows concentration as she prepares for the serve.

Dressed in typical festival attire, senior Margaret Case watches for reactions to various cake samples from senior Kathy Chambers and junior Robert Barron at the Medieval Fair bake sale.

Sophomores Liz Norville and Mary Chrestensen compare bicycles and discuss route plans before joining 10 other friends for a 30 mile, two and a half hour long, bike ride to McIver Park.

A silhouetted couple strikes a reflective pose at the entrance of the Renaissance Ball.

Freshman Bruce Hildreth discovers an escape route through a multitude of cardboard boxes which comprised the human maze, a new addition to the Medieval Fair held in Powell Park.

Sitting on the hay covered floor, students attending the Renaissance Ball on Halloween listen attentively to the music of the lead musicians of the "Notary Sojac."

Jump rope talents are displayed by sophomore Cindy Kaady, who seems delighted with her agility, while Miss Barbara Temple, Kelly Zapp, and Jay Raskin look on with varied expressions.

'Charisma'

Gym was transformed overnight...

into a serene winter wonderland for "Charisma," the annual Christmas semi-formal. Students found the usually drab Cleveland gym accented with a false ceiling of white crepe paper. Snowflakes hung from the ceiling, decorated the walls, and covered the floor, and fragrant green Christmas trees added to the total holiday atmosphere.

Reigning over the yuletide event was senior Queen Barbara Hansen, escorted by Mike Ferguson. Her court consisted of junior Princess Vanessa Blocker, escorted by Albert Hill, sophomore Princess Catie Higgins, escorted by John Nachtwey, and freshman Princess Gail Burford, escorted by Karl Leaverton. The court, along with approximately 60 other couples, spent the evening dancing to the music of the "Soul Masters." Student Body President Kathy Chambers declared the dance "successful."

Bruce Horowitz and Susan Hyde leave the other couples on the dance floor to sit quietly and talk, while Gayle Sternberg and Steve Skorney already seem to be discussing their evening.

Under an enchanting false ceiling of white crepe paper and dangling snowflakes, approximately 60 couples danced amidst green Christmas trees to the tantalizing music of the "Soul Masters."

Spring S.B. Dance

Outdoor dance was moved in . . .

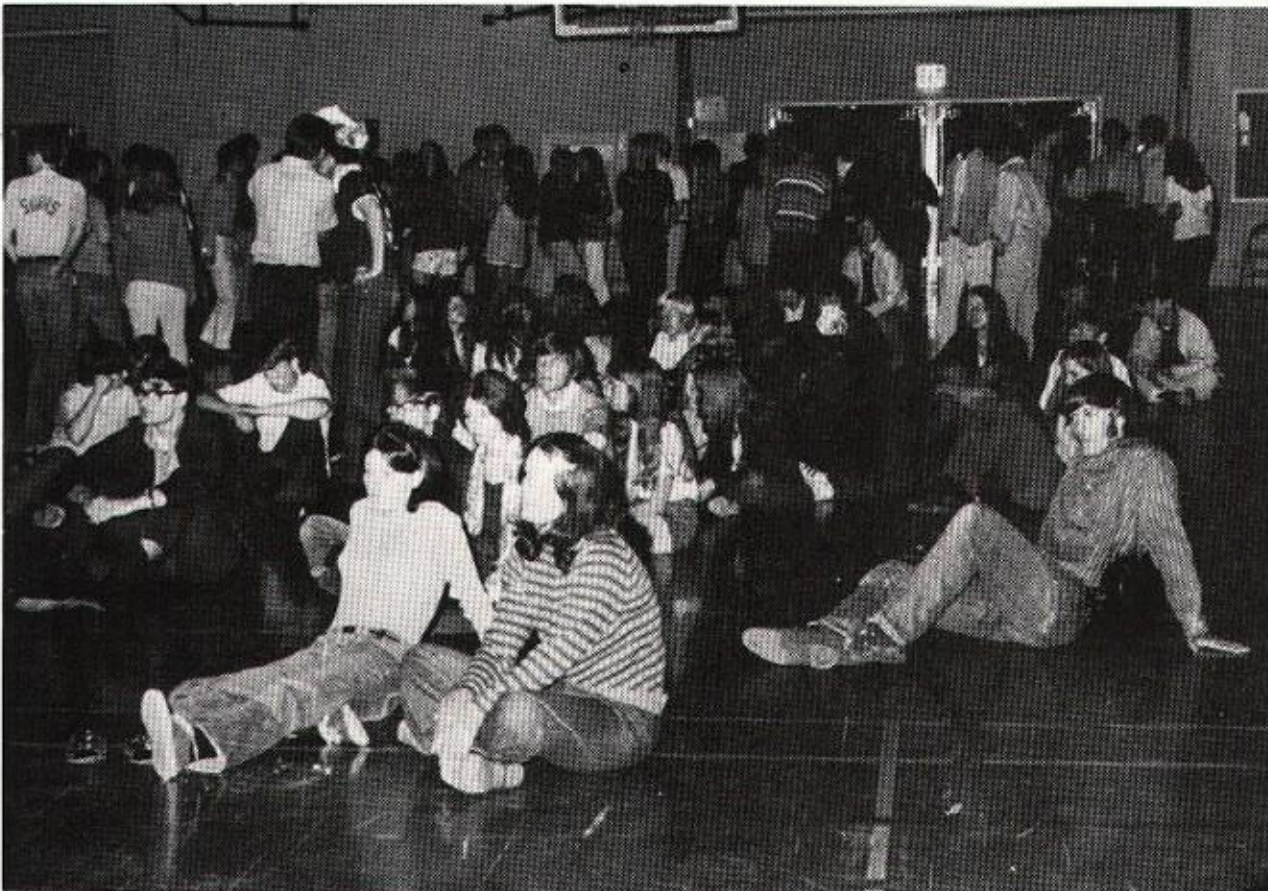

by a disagreeable police department. "The noise pollution would have been too great for the homes surrounding Cleveland," commented Miss Martha Ireland, activities director, adding, "The amplifiers used by the bands today can carry music over four blocks." The dance was supposed to be in the breeze way between the buildings.

"A Step into the Unknown", the theme for the student body dance featuring "River" as the performing artists, drew a fairly large crowd to enjoy the music.

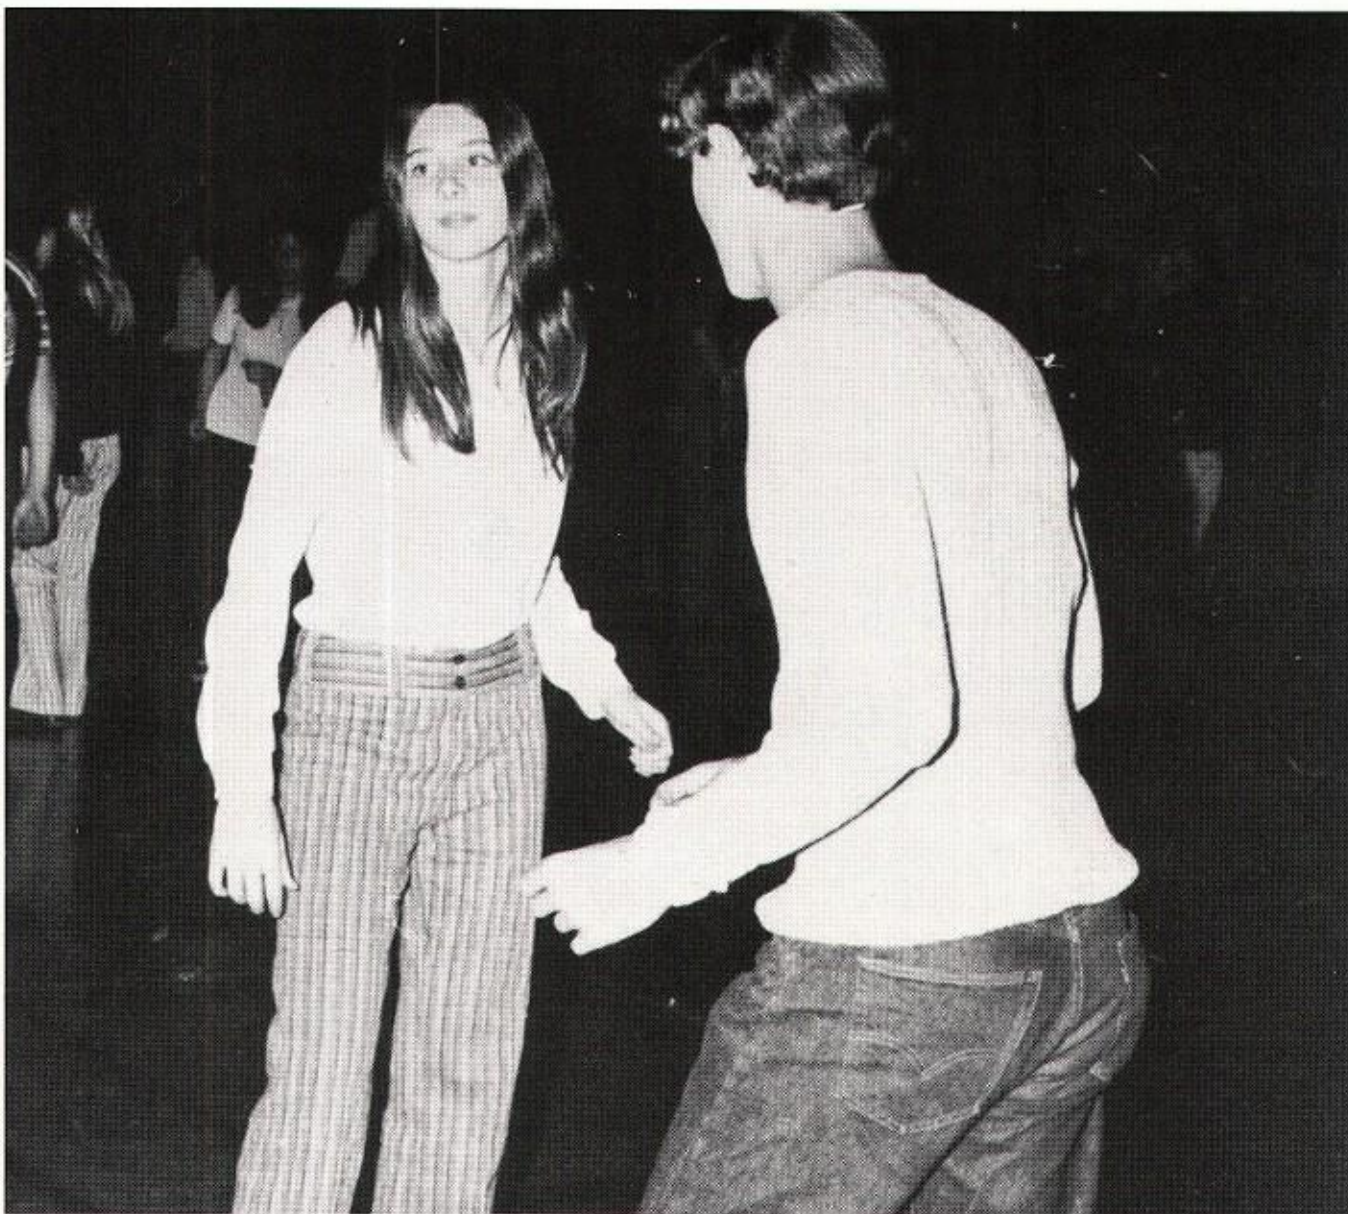

Before taking a break during their performance, "River" plays one of their many selections for the enjoyment of those students dancing and those sitting on the floor, listening.

Students who preferred just listening to the music are shown here, relaxing and absorbing the atmosphere of their friends, while others admire art and decorations adorning the walls.

Unidentified students enjoy each others company and the atmosphere of the dance music.

As they enjoy their "Step into the Unknown", freshman Nancy Bush and her escort, senior Burt Carnegie, dance to the wild sounds of "River" in the dimly lit CHS gymnasium.

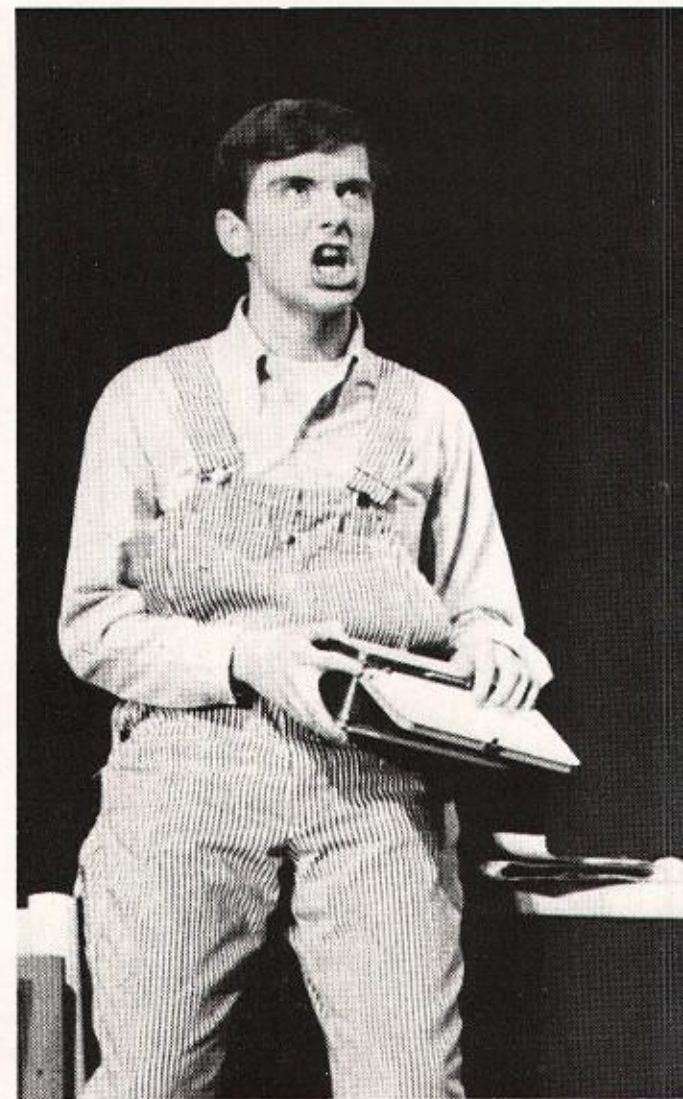

A member of the group, "River," plays a solo during its evening performance at Cleveland.

Ignasio Betancourt and his date groove to the music, among approximately 100 other enthusiastic couples who also attended and danced to the music in the Cleveland gym, Friday, May 21.

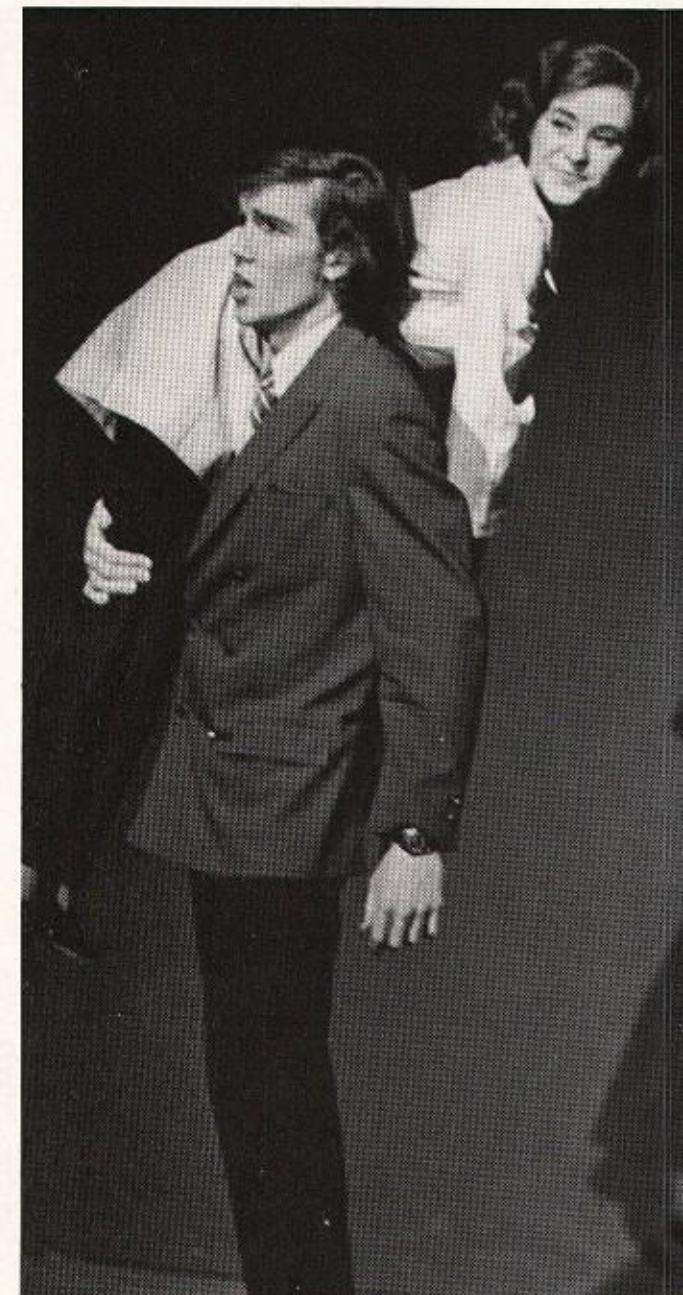

Prez (Bruce Howlett) explains the necessity of a strike to a factory worker (Kelly Zapp).

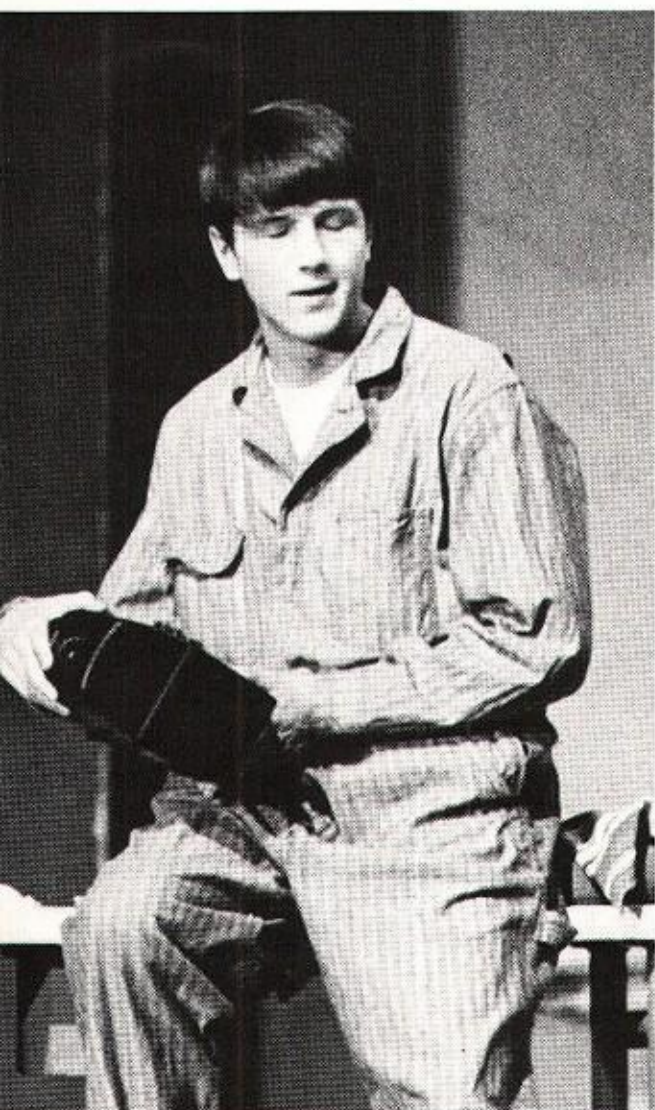

First helper (Bill Ferrier) complains as his co-worker (Pat McGrath) listens patiently.

Prez (Bruce Howlett) and Babe (Sherrie Finnell) are surrounded by fellow factory workers' pickets as they join together singing "Seven-and-A-Half Cents" to emphasize their grievance.

Babe (Sherrie Finnell) is literally carried away by Sid's song "There Once Was A Man."

Spring Musical

Fighting for a raise of 7½ ¢ . . .

was the main issue in "Pajama Game," Cleveland's spring musical comedy written by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross presented by the music and drama departments March 11, 12, and 13.

The musical took place in the Sleep Tite pajama factory where the factory workers threaten to strike if their boss refused to grant them the seven and a half cent raise they demanded. Babe, who headed the grievance committee, and Prez, the leader of the factory workers, led the strike while Sid, the new superintendent, and Hines, the time study man, tried to keep the factory workers working. Complications arose when Babe fell in love with Sid. The set was one of Cleveland's most ambitious with two rooms that moved on and off in one piece.

The play was directed by Mrs. Bevins Stocking, with choral direction by E. Bruce Johnson, and orchestra direction by Robert Kerns.

During the final scene, Mr. Hasler (Bob Persons), Gladys (Ruth Roberts), Hines (Mike Hepburn) and the rest of the cast dance while they sing the musical's theme song, "The Pajama Game".

Sexy Gladys (Ruth Roberts) plays hard to get by pondering whether or not she should accept a date with Sid (Dave Koehler) the superintendant, as he waits anxiously for her answer.

Hines (Mike Hepburn) opens the play by introducing the Sleep-Tite pajama factory.

The entire cast, with smiling faces, joins hands for their grand finale of "The Pajama Game" and prepares to receive the Saturday night audience's standing ovation for a job well done.

The Grievance Committee holds an informal meeting at Babe's (Sherrie Finnell) house to plot their upcoming strike strategy against Mr. Hasler and the Sleep-Tite pajama factory.

place in the powderpuff basketball competition held during the traditional, jointly sponsored Spring Girls' League and Knights' Week in April. The junior team was coached by Curt Martin.

"In an attempt to organize a week of unifying activities, the cabinets sponsored a graffiti board in the cafeteria during the lunch periods, a pie eating contest, and an ice cream bar sale," explained Nancy Trefethen, Girls League president.

Large cardboard suns painted with smiling faces and a crepe paper false ceiling were the decor for the Friday night dance, "Here Comes the Sun," which brought an end to the week's activities. Freshman Melinda Zapf was selected queen and senior Chris Carlson, junior Evelyn Wright, and sophomore Audrey Soejima were the members of her court. Couples were entertained by the music of the "New Colony."

The Spring Girls League-Knights' dance, "Here Comes the Sun," brought this group of students together to enjoy both the company of their dates and the music provided by the "New Colony."

Sophomore Cathy Buckshnis, along with numerous other students, takes time out from the dancing to quietly sit and relax and listen to the entertaining music of the "New Colony."

Decorations included large smiling suns, a crepe paper false ceiling, and balloons.

Paul Yearout speaks about the problems of young people today during a Knights assembly.

English teacher Marcia Carpenter and her husband chaperone a basketball after-game dance.

Cleveland's 'High Q' team, which was composed of seniors Matt Chan, Kate Gruetter, and John Hoffnagle, and junior Gene Mesher, suffered a disappointing loss to the South Salem team, 330-110.

Mr. Charles King, who introduced an unusual unity to Cleveland students during a Black Student Union assembly, helps senior Elbert Hill sing that high note as Julie Hildenbrand looks on.

Varying interests resulted in . . .

a wide variety of activities that ranged from unique fund raising ideas to unifying assemblies.

The Girls' League Father-Daughter Banquet drew a large crowd to the Cleveland cafeteria in mid-winter. A chicken dinner was served by Knights' volunteers, while the entertainment was provided by the Cinderella Modeling Agency of Salem and the Cleveland dance team.

An unusual fund raising method to raise money for the Red Cross was employed during a spring pep assembly. One teacher represented each of the four classes. Each class was given a starting time to begin throwing money to the floor below.

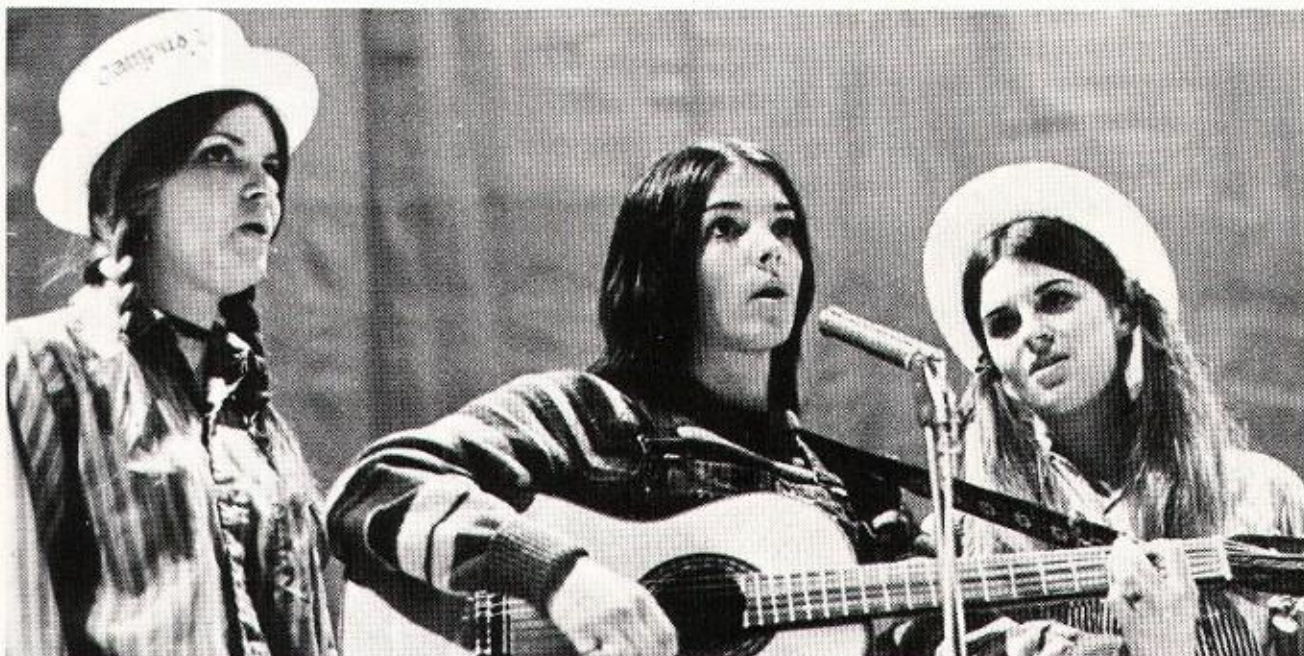

As long as the money continued to come in, the teacher was enjoying a shower of whipping cream sprayed by the class president.

For the first time in several years, a dance team was organized at Cleveland. "Cherokee" was composed of nine girls and advised by Miss Lynda Densem, French teacher at Cleveland. The group performed at home basketball games and pep assemblies during the winter sports season.

Cleveland's 'High Q' team, coached by speech teacher Howard Siegal, was defeated by South Salem, 330-110.

The Father-Daughter banquet, sponsored by the Girls' League, was well attended by girls and their fathers, who enjoyed a fun evening of entertainment and dinner served by the Knights'.

Campus Life member, Jan David, strums the guitar while her advisors Candee Greenstein and Karen Hahn join in to accompany her in an original country-western song during the Sadie Hawkins Hootenany.

History teacher Mr. Kevin Stewart takes part in the Red Cross Fund Drive at a pep assembly.

The newest fashion trend in tennis shoes, the open toe air-conditioned style, was perhaps the result of the very relaxed dress code or just too many of those hot and humid summer days!

Senior Ellen Tinkle actively participates in the special section on "Child Development" in her home economics class project, by tutoring small students in neighborhood grade schools.

Cherokee, Cleveland's dance team, performed modern routines at several school activities.

Senior Joy Branson's niece follows in the footsteps of her "Auntie Joy" at a home game.

Man's search for life's goals . . .

was the basic theme of Tennessee Williams' "Camino Real." Camino Real, which means Royal Road, was an obstacle all men had to overcome, a personal hell each man had to go through to pass into the future. The characters in the play were unreal only in the sense that they did not exist today as themselves, but rather were manifested in the souls of each and every one of us.

The play presented April 30-May 1, was divided into 16 "blocks", each presenting a problem for a character.

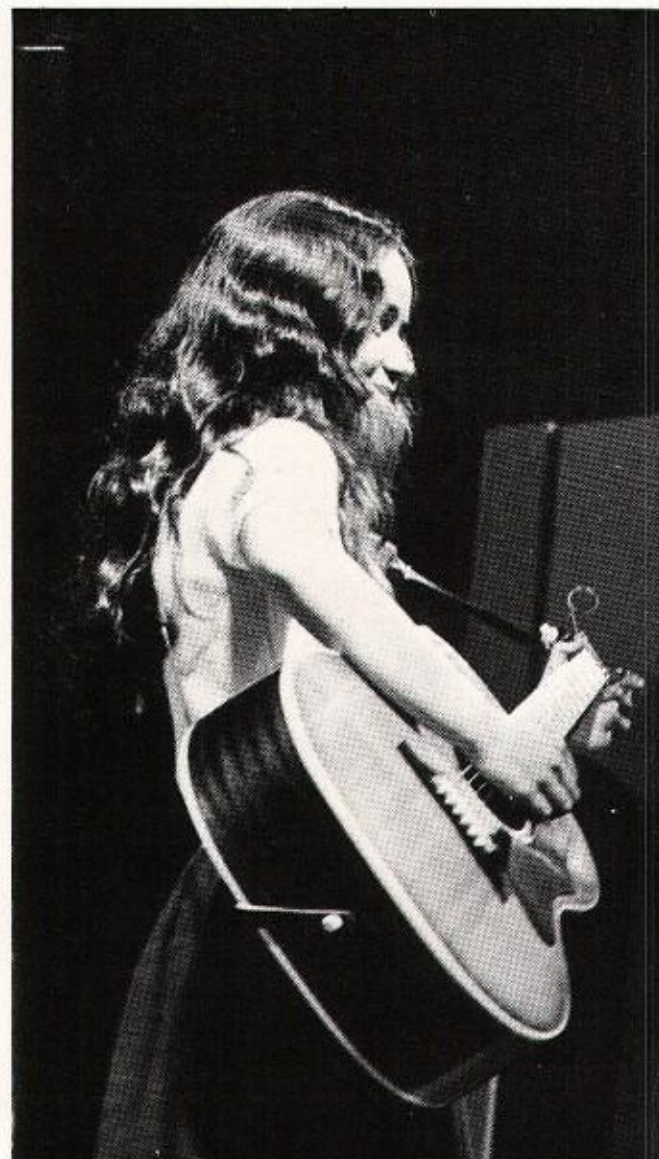

"The over-all cast unity provided for an entertaining and stimulating theatre experience," said director Howard Siegel.

Senior Class Play

of Woody Allen's comedy "Don't Drink the Water" received good reviews by the students and parents who attended the April 16 performance. "It was rewarding to know we could do it on our own," commented Ann Goldschmidt.

The play was directed by Pat Martin, Bruce Howlett, and Brian McLaughlin, who also held parts in the play.

"The senior class play was once a tradition at Cleveland," said Bruce Howlett, senior class president, adding, "It was a fun experience, and we made close to $100, too."

Senior Prom

surrounding it was the center of attention at the Senior Prom, "Casa-blanca," in the vast sunken ballroom of the Masonic Temple on May 8. Amidst the blanket of multi-colored garden flowers was an ivory fountain, which sprayed water into a circular pool below.

The Rose Festival May Court was introduced during intermission when Senior Class President Bruce Howlett presented May Queen Jan Stadum to her onlooking class members. In April, Jan was selected queen by a vote of her senior classmates.

"A friendly, cheerful atmosphere along with a touch of sentimentality seemed apparent as I watched the couples," commented Mr. Gary Crook, one of the chaperones.

"Over-all, I'd say that our Prom was a success and special mention should be made of Corrinna Gogas and Judy Crivella for the great job they did on the decorations," concluded Howlett.

In the Masonic Temple sunken ballroom, approximately eighty couples surround a decorated mosque tower as they listen and dance to the soft music provided by the Bill Herret Orchestra.

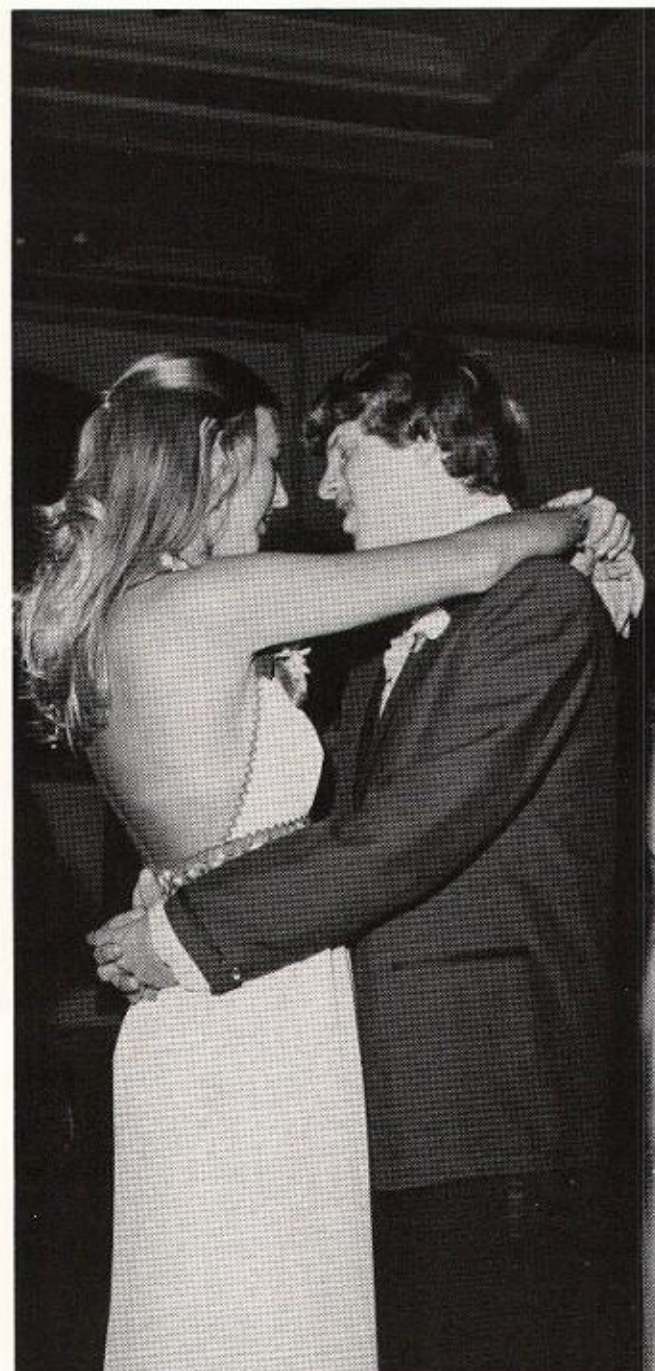

Chris Danna's guest, Tom Gay, finds a moment to whisper sweet nothings into her ear.

Breaking into an outburst of laughter, May Queen Jan Stadum and her Marshall escort, John Copeland, lead the traditional Queen's Dance, while other guests look on before joining the couple.

Drifting into a world all their own, seniors Barbara Hansen and Mike Ferguson quietly sit and talk about the past, the present, and the future, secluding themselves from the crowd below.

Arms still around each other, Sue Gray and Mitch Culbertson pause from dancing to talk.

Sitting at a table on the side of the dance floor, four couples nibble on candy while they talk and get to know each other better, listening to the music instead of dancing to it.

May Court

Student body warmly greeted . . .

Rhonda Diane Laycoe as she was presented as Cleveland's 1971 choice for Queen of Rosaria. Despite an attempt by three students to disrupt the first announcement assembly, Rhonda received a standing ovation and she expressed her gratitude saying, "I hope some day all of you are able to experience something that makes you as happy as you've made me today." Princess Rhonda, the first member of the 1971 Royal Court, spent the rest of the day granting radio and television interviews and posing for innumerable pictures.

Preliminary eliminations began in late March when 32 seniors were judged on their poise, appearance, and speaking ability by a Rose Festival Association committee. This tryout narrowed the applicants to 21, and after another evening of competition, the judges names the six finalists, Nikki Hill, Lori Kunz, Rhonda Laycoe, Cynthia Leo, Jan Stadum, and Melissa Zapf, who make up the traditional May Court. The Senior class chose Jan Stadum as May Queen to reign at the Senior Prom.

Rose Festival

patrons with a wide variety of displays and rides as the Rose Festival officially opened in early June. Luncheons, tours and the exciting Merryklana Parade kept Cleveland's Rhonda, along with the other 12 princesses, busy entertaining and being entertained as they were escorted to all public appearances by the Royal Rosarians.

The excitement and suspense for both the princesses and public, rose to its peak during the Queen selection, June 7. Princess Rhonda, bathed in a Nile green organza gown with an armful of pink roses was the first of the royalty to distinguish herself apart from the others through a one and a half minute speech and graceful curtsies. With an outstanding and continual smile, Rhonda spoke on the festival theme, "Doorways to Dreams", while being judged on poise, appearance, and speaking ability. As the audience listened to the well-known "New Oregon Singers", backstage the girls learned of the 1971 Queen of Rosaria, Kristi Lee of Roosevelt.

The Grand Floral Parade, enjoyed by young and old alike, featured fifty floats, decorated with all kinds of natural flowers and was viewed in downtown Portland by thousands of spectators.

Deep in thought, Princess Rhonda sniffs a rose from her bouquet while quietly anticipating her appearance before the anxiously awaiting audience and judges during the Queen's coronation.

Approaching the revolving stage, Rhonda beams towards enthusiastic Cleveland students.

on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 1 and 2.

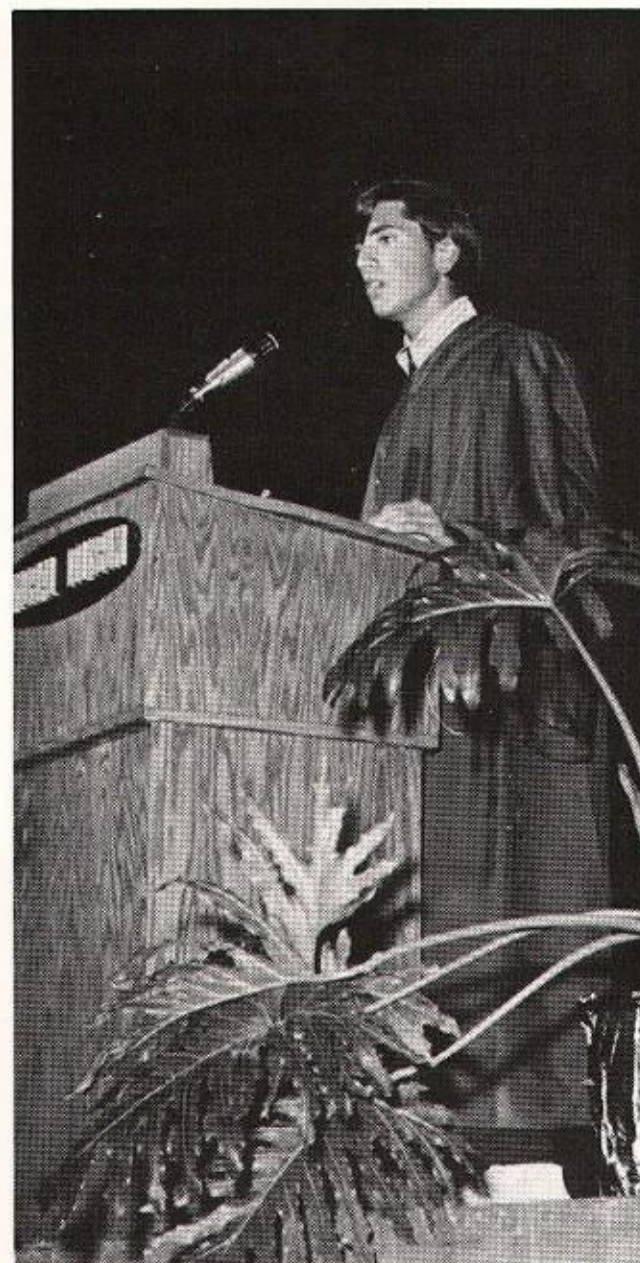

The school auditorium was the setting for Baccalaureate exercises, a special evening service held for the graduates, their parents and friends. The guest speakers included the Rev. Thomas Marley, associate pastor of St. Philip Neri Catholic Church, Rabbi Yonah H. Geller, president of the Portland Rabbinical Association, and the Rev. Thomas R. Brown, assistant pastor of Bethesda Christian Church. Bob Schulz recited the scripture reading and Teresa Leonard read a poem. A brief reception was held in the cafeteria following the services.

Commencement exercises for the class of 1971 were held the following evening in the Memorial Colliseum. Special speaker for the event was Mr. Frank M. Case, a Portland School Board member. Class speakers were Luke Henson, who spoke on the class motto, "Quitters Never Win, Winners Never Quit," and Kathy Chambers and Jim Kramer spoke on the class theme, "Anyone Who Hopes To Succeed Must Keep On Learning."

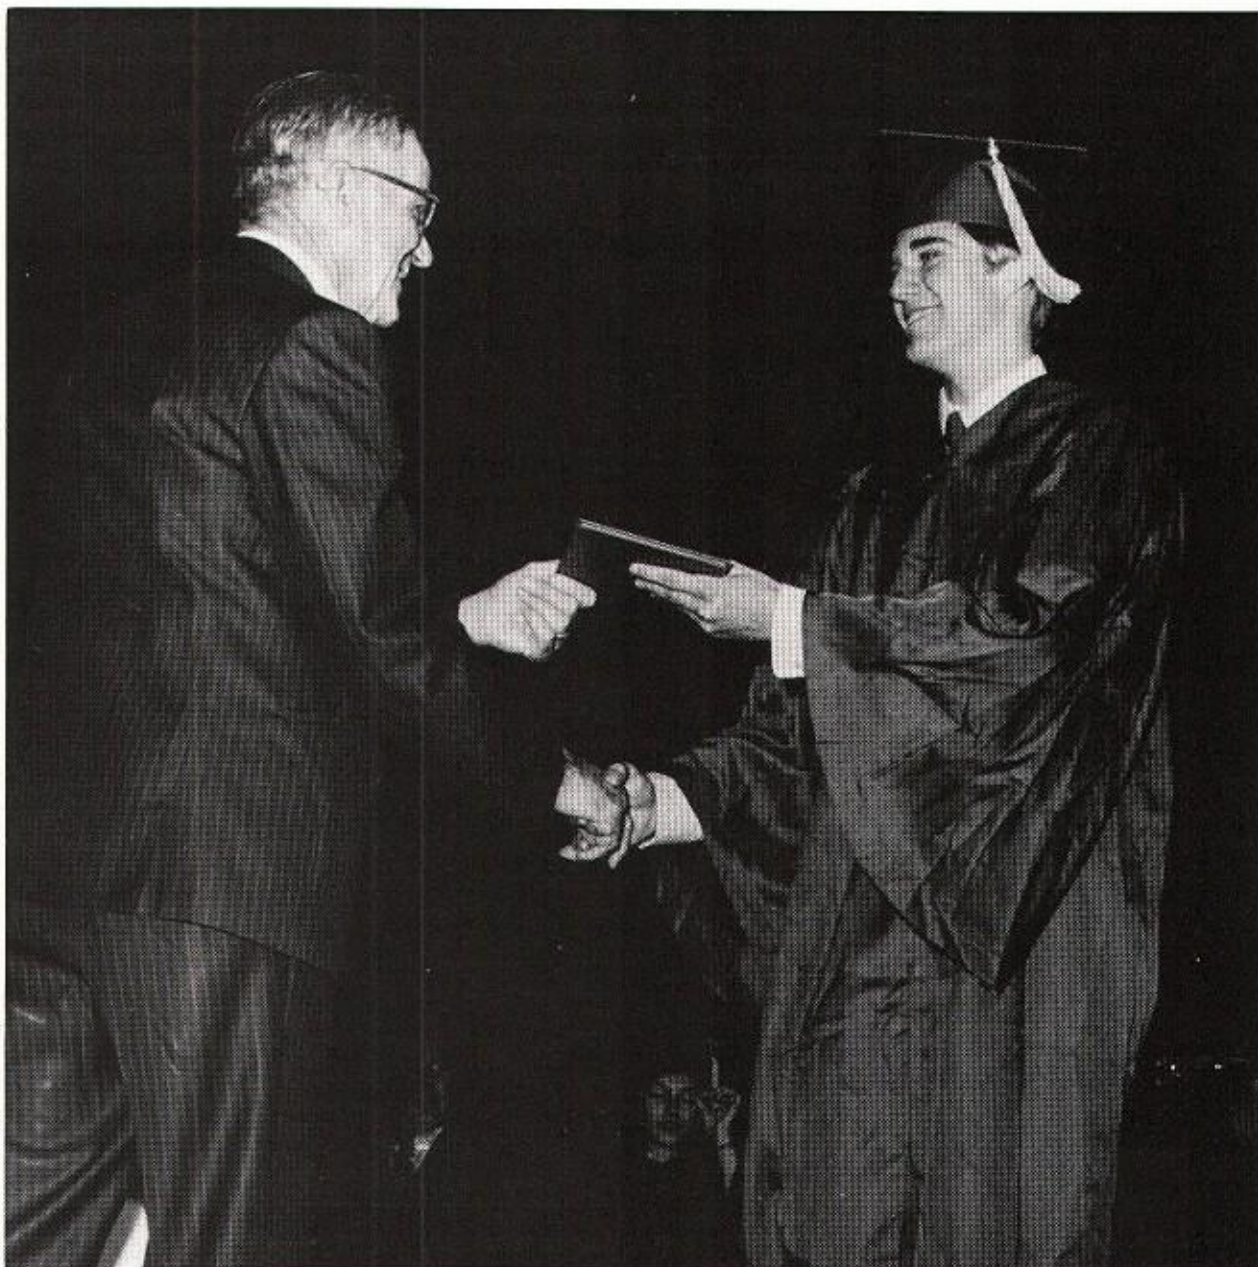

Upon returning to one of four specified rooms Mr. Gary Crook assists Kate Gruetter in finding her diploma insert and Commencement program after the ceremony in Memorial Colliseum.

MICS

Experimenting with new ideas . . .

led to the development of artistic talents among students. The art department offers classes in the areas of drawing, lettering, painting, ceramics and metal art. "The practice of art is essential; it extends our awareness and develops our ability to relate all that concerns us in a new way. The relating process is creative and, if done beautifully, is art," commented Mrs. Elinore Olson, a virtuoso and instructor in the field.

The artwork of Mr. Norman Eng, art instructor, was displayed at Peanut Gallery, Portland; Thelma Pearson Gallery, Lincoln City; Long Alley Gallery, Lake Oswego, and Contemporary Crafts, Portland. "In my collage work, I limit my materials to various kinds of colored rice paper, employing no pigments. The finished collage displays the natural qualities of the paper—color, texture, torn edges, opacity and transparency," explained Mr. Eng.

Medical clerical instruction . . .

was provided in a course taught by Mr. Jack Dobler, a business education teacher. Learners were required to type accurately and have an interest in a vocation. During the second half of the school year, students rotated between school instruction and training at the Portland Osteopathic Hospital, where they worked in the admitting office and records departments, typing and filing for the hospital staff.

Class instruction included filing, learning to use key punch and adding machines and attaining a medical vocabulary.

A new off-set duplicator was added to the existing equipment in the department. The machine provides more distinct reproduction and can also provide colored copies as it reproduces at a maximum of 5400 sheets an hour.

Combined Classes

was a change from their grade school curriculum. English and social studies was taught by one teacher to help students adjust to high school. "The only setback I can think of is that it is difficult to find teachers who are equally prepared in both subjects," related Mrs. Blanche Robbins, the combined classes department head.

For the English portion of the course, various kinds of reading material were examined and a greater emphasis was placed on the preparation of oral and written reports.

The social studies unit focused on the cultures of Asia, Africa, Europe, and Latin America. Map and chart reading was also reviewed.

Half year classes were added . . .

to the choice of English electives for upperclassmen. They offered juniors and seniors a chance to explore specific literature and writing areas in lieu of, or in addition to the regular English courses.

American literature, English literature, Shakespeare, short story, and modern novel were among the selection of subjects dealing with literature. It was necessary that they be backed up with one of the following writing courses: basic composition, advanced composition, creative writing, or vocabulary, spelling and usage. These were additions to the non-substitute electives which included drama, speech, journalism, effective reading and stage craft.

Mr. Henry Matson took disability retirement in January. During his 27 years at Cleveland he was a counselor and counseling department head, a senior, sophomore and business English, short story, drama, and speech teacher, the newspaper advisor and radio and television coordinator.

Cultural information was used . . .

to promote understanding and appreciation of the people and their backgrounds as well as their languages. Cleveland's foreign language department offered students the choice of French, German, Latin, Russian and Spanish.

Approximately thirty percent of CHS's student body enrolled in a foreign language class, ten percent of whom took German.

First year students were generally concerned with developing vocabulary and grammatical patterns and applying them to simple conversation, reading, and writing. For the second year students, more emphasis was placed on pronunciation in addition to securing the four basic language skills of understanding, speaking, reading, and writing. Third and fourth year students who had mastered the basic skills continued building these skills and were given the opportunity to read various literary works and encouraged to actively participate in conversation.

Five new additions sparked . . .

interest in the home economics department as the enrollment increased. The new classes were basic clothing, advanced clothing, child development, basic foods and home furnishings.

Basic clothing provided a general knowledge of the techniques involved in clothing design, while advanced clothing included a more extensive study in the clothing area. Pre-school children participated in the child development class. Basic foods was available for girls desiring information about buying and preparing food. In the home furnishings class, students were given guidelines for selecting floor coverings, wall treatments, furniture and accessories.

Useful projects were created . . .

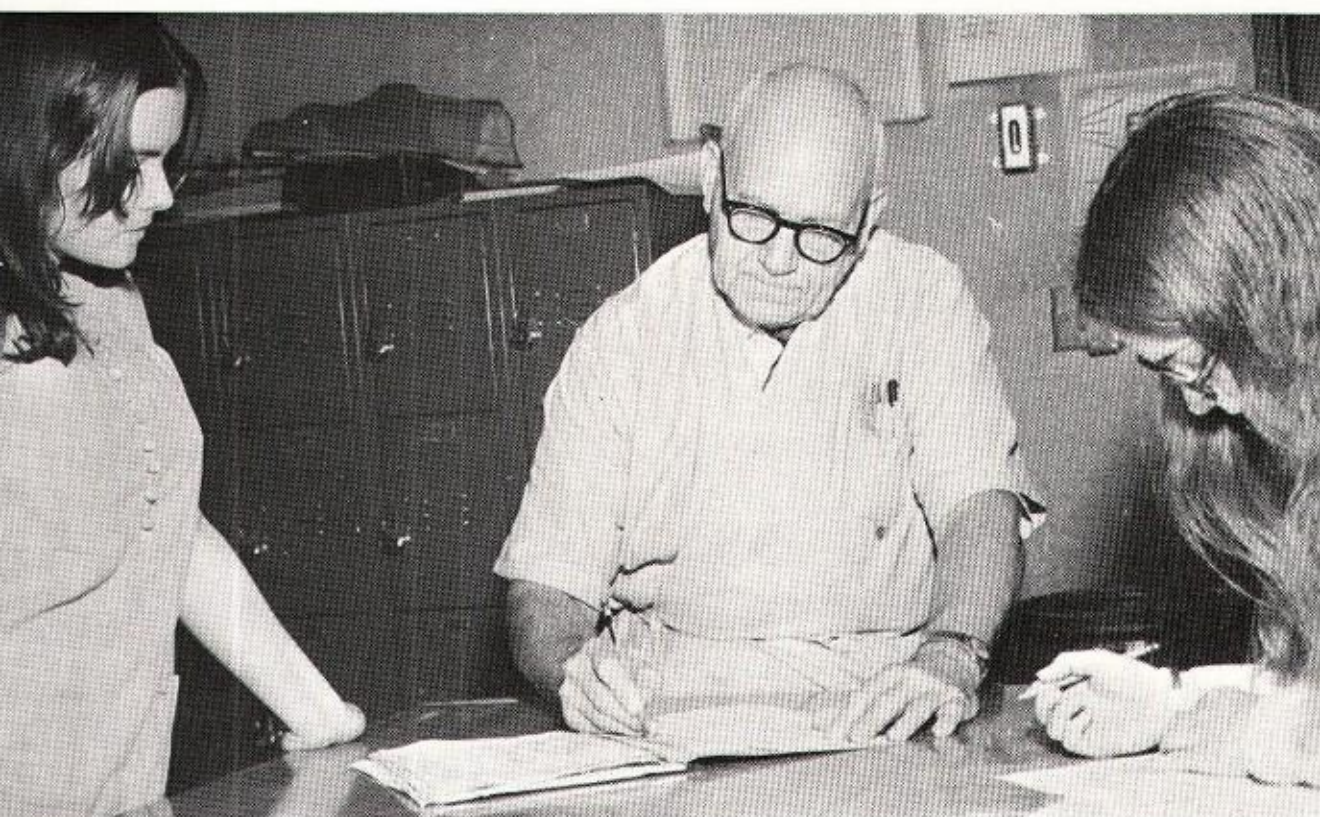

in the metal and woodworking classes of the industrial arts department, and items were often sold for substantial profits. Some of the projects made were small pieces of furniture, cabinets, metal utility trailers and tool boxes.

Introduction to industrial education oriented students to the four basic areas of metal, wood, mechanical drawing and electronics. Advanced courses were also offered in each area. A separate rotating class enabled girls to get acquainted with industrial skills. Enrollment totaled 15 this year and if enrollment next year indicates enough interest, the class will be continued.

Age of the computer arrived . . .

at Cleveland this year in the form of a Hawlett Packard 2000 A, which was used in computer mathematics, a semester course taught by Mr. Larry Pattee. "The main objective of computer mathematics is to develop knowledge in solving the problems of mathematics, science and industry that involve numerical analysis," Mr. Pattee explained. Students who had completed second year algebra or second year introduction to algebra were eligible to enroll in the course.

Students discovered that the computer not only solved their homework problems, but they also played chess, three dimensional tic-tac-toe, football and blackjack with the machine, which also could print out a picture or write music and poetry.

Athletic feats were stressed . . .

to help physical education students discover their physical strengths and overcome their weaknesses. Individuals were encouraged to make use of their capacities in units such as basketball, football, volleyball, tumbling, apparatus, dancing, rugby and soccer. The universal gym was available to help strengthen or trim down minor physical flaws.

Freshmen participated in a full year of instruction and sophomores combined a semester of physical activity with a semester of health education. Subjects covered in the health unit included the structure and function of body systems, the use of alcohol, narcotics and tobacco, first aid, safety, an understanding of communicable and non-communicable diseases, and driver education. This year driver education, taught by Mr. Don York and Mr. Dale Henderson, was designed as a nine week course separate from the health unit.

Department suffered big loss . . .

with the retirement of Mr. J. O. Norton, who taught U.S. history and American problems at Cleveland for 26 years. During his career, he served as the social studies department head, the athletic director, and the varsity baseball and basketball coach.

In October, students from social studies classes attended the "What's Right With America!" conference at the Memorial Coliseum sponsored by Columbia Christian College. The invited speakers discussed free enterprise, activism, racism and the state of the economy.

Some Cleveland students were given the opportunity to participate in state legislative process through the YMCA Youth Legislative Program. The Youth Legislature met in Salem at the state capitol during April.

New foreign students secured . . .

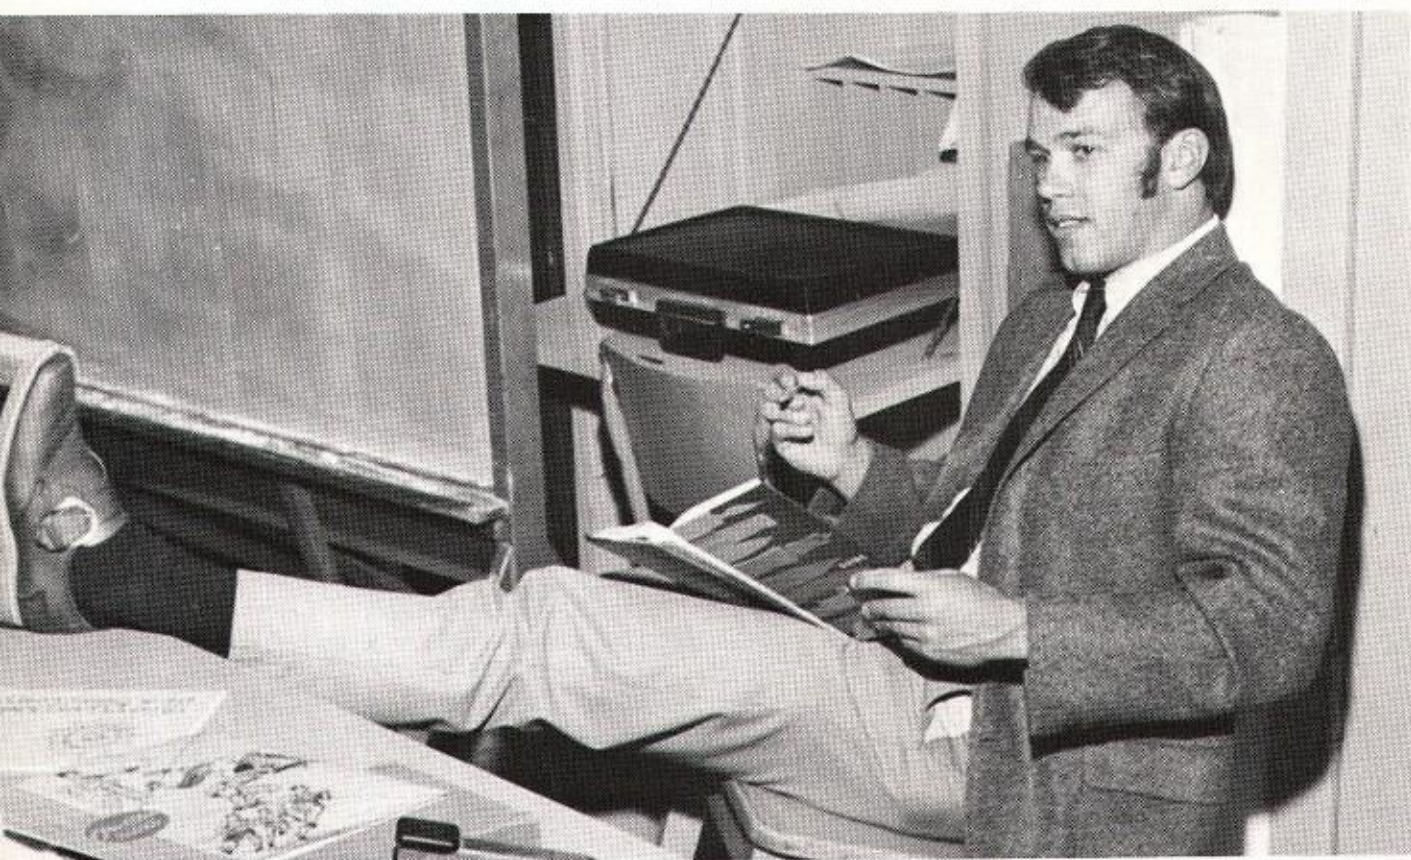

their knowledge of English as a second language through the guidance of Mrs. Florence Hendershott. "In this class we attempt to transform grammar, changing sentence structure and sound systems," explained Mrs. Hendershott.

Beginning students attended this class several periods a day, while the more advanced students needed only attend once a day. During the morning, Mrs. Hendershott placed emphasis on individualized instruction, and during the afternoon the class was more structured in large group drills. In addition to teaching, Mrs. Hendershott helped her students achieve cultural insight, and programmed their other classes.

Career Education Week began . . .

a series of three career presentations. During the week, Nov. 9-13, the Career Education Center provided movies and speakers which examined several vocational areas. "It was hoped that this program would stimulate the students to think more about their individual interests and that it would help them answer questions about specific careers," commented Miss Marilouise Schlicker, coordinator of the week's events.

Distributive education acquainted students with fundamentals of selling, merchandising, marketing and advertising with classroom and actual on-the-job experience.

Style was revised to create . . .

a more artistic effect in the 1971 LEGEND. The 28 members of the staff hoped to produce a more graphic coverage of persons, places, and events by combining old ideas with new. The 1970 LEGEND received a First Class rating from the National Scholastic Press Association, which annually issues ratings of high school yearbooks. "Using their critique, which included a suggestion for improvement, we hope to have an All-American yearbook this year," said Marilyn Russell, editor of the 1971 LEGEND.

Drawing layouts, writing captions and headlines, and organizing information for copy was a real challenge with a standardized letter count and three column picture size. Hard work and creative effort from each and every staff member resulted in meeting deadlines.

'Excellent' rating was given . . . to the TOMAHAWK for its publications during the first semester of this year. The National Scholastic Press Association at the University of Minnesota evaluates newspapers by judging on coverage and content, writing and editing, editorial leadership, physical appearance and photography. The TOMAHAWK was considered 'excellent' and was also awarded a Mark of Distinction in the field of writing and editing. By receiving four Marks of Distinction, a newspaper can receive an All American rating, which is the best possible rating.

"The TOMAHAWK staff is particularly skilled in news writing. Stories are objective, crisp and to the point. The news writing deserves a mention for its color and accurate use of details," said Mrs. Helen Ganzley, who evaluated the newspaper.

Numerous public appearances . . .

in school productions and around the community kept the choral groups in Cleveland's music department performing often. The Clevelandaires, A Cappella Choir, and Triple Trio all had major roles in the programs that were presented this year which included Harvest Music Festival, a Christmas program, and Springtasia. The Clevelandaires sang for Freshman Orientation, civic groups, dinner meetings, lodges, hospitals and grade schools. A Cappella Choir also performed grade school concerts and along with the Clevelandaires, provided musical entertainment for Baccalaureate and Commencement. Triple Trio did a limited amount of singing for civic groups, but did manage to boost the spirits at several hospitals with melodious songs. In a city wide solo and small ensemble festival, the Clevelandaires and Triple Trio both received a first division rating, which is the highest possible.

Junior Choir provided students with an opportunity for training in choral music in preparation for further vocal instruction.

as the Stage and Concert Bands, directed by instrumental teacher Mr. Robert Kerns, rehearsed long and often preparing for an active year.

Clad in new uniforms, purchased in Europe during the Clevelandaires-Stage Band tour last year, the Stage Band highlighted school and PTA functions with a variety of musical entertainment. They also played in a Jazz Festival, sponsored by the University of Portland's music department, in March. Senior pianist, Mike Hepburn, received an "Outstanding Musician" award during the competition. He was among five other musicians who were awarded plaques citing them as "outstanding" in the Jazz Festival.

The Concert Band played for all athletic events and assemblies. Their participation in the Rose Festival Parade was their last performance. Not only was an adequate knowledge of musical arrangements necessary for this performance, but the Concert Band also had to master a marching routine, which required a great deal of coordination. Both the Concert Band and the Stage Band provided a full program of tunes for Harvest Music festival and Spring-tasia, Cleveland's annual fall and spring musical productions.

Musical was brought to life . . .

by Cleveland's outstanding orchestration under the direction of Mr. Robert Kerns. The orchestra gave instrumental support to the performers in this year's spring musical, "Pajama Game." Almost two months of practice was needed to prepare the 45 piece instrumental group for its major annual performance, which is a cooperative effort of the choral and instrumental music, drama and art departments.

The orchestra also performed in several other music programs including Harvest Music Festival and Springtasia. Both programs are put on annually by the music department. In addition, the orchestra displayed their accomplishments in concert form, to five grade schools.

Conscientious staffs labored . . .

to keep the school functioning, well fed, clean and with records in order as they performed their often time thankless jobs.

The Cafeteria staff tantalized the taste buds of students and faculty with tempting, but nourishing menus. The custodians were hard at work each day to keep the campus sparkling. The secretaries served as receptionists and relayed messages to all within the building in the form of bulletins and other typed material.

Mrs. Loice Scroggin, bank manager, handled student body funds and sold school supplies and tickets to athletic and student body functions. As data processing clerk, Mrs. Phyllis Bader organized all material for programming and grading. Mrs. Arlene Deverell, book clerk, issued and recollected texts. ATIONS

National Honor Society

Junior members were inducted . . .

into the National Honor Society, a nationally sponsored organization, in an all-school assembly in early December. The 33 junior and 21 senior inductees brought the membership total to 84. Mr. Hubert Newton, president of Cleveland's Dads' Club, spoke at the induction ceremony about "The Will to Achieve." Following the assembly, all the members attended a traditional luncheon at Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor.

The purpose of NHS is to recognize students who have excelled in the four areas of scholarship, leadership, character and service. Any junior or senior with an accumulative grade point average of 3.5 or above can apply. Candidates were judged by administrators and five faculty members on an impartial point-system.

University workshops provided . . .

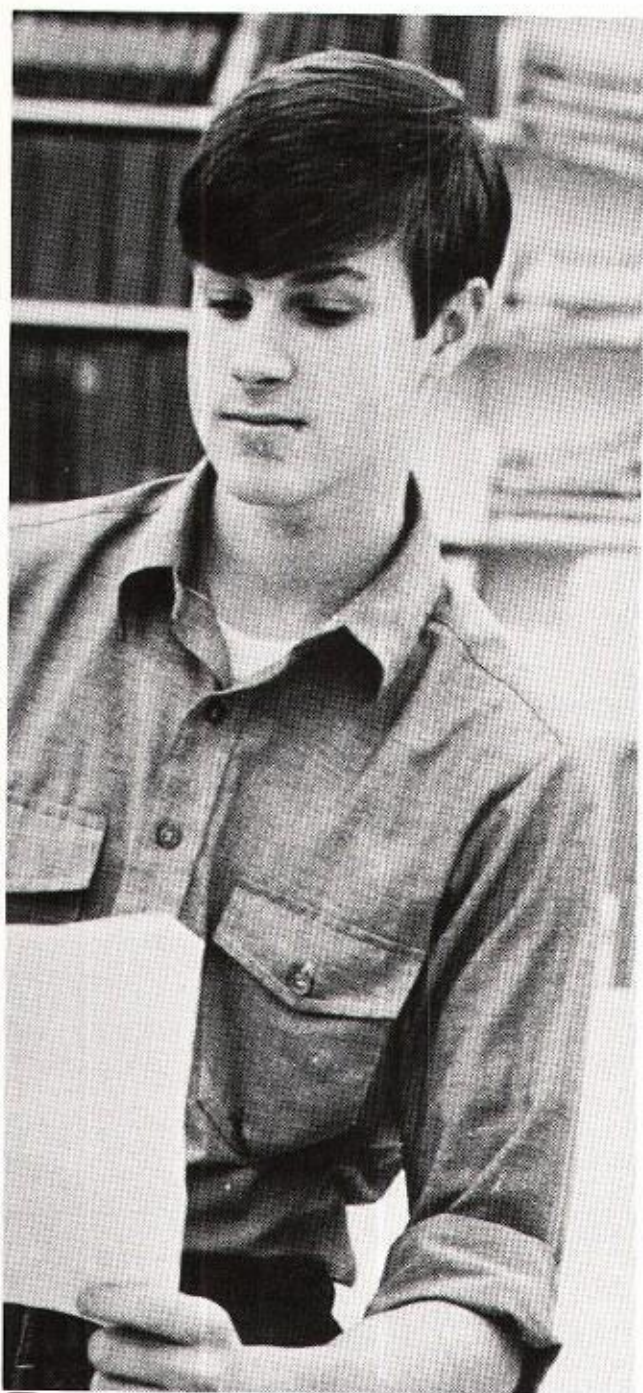

Quill and Scroll members with an opportunity to listen to graphic arts specialists, to learn about other schools' programs, and to exchange ideas with other publication students from throughout the state. In September, members attended the PSU/American Yearbook Co. Workshop at Portland State, and in October, they travelled to Eugene for the 44th annual High School Press Conference, sponsored by the Oregon Scholastic Press.

Membership in Cleveland's chapter of Quill and Scroll, the national honorary for high school journalists, required a 3.0 grade point average and is granted after a significant contribution to the publications department. A year's service on either the TOMAHAWK or LEGEND staff and advisor approval are also necessary.

QUILL AND SCROLL MEMBERS. Kristy Cox, Jeff Yerke, Teresa Leonard, Pat McClellan, Jan Sigler, Bret Ericson, Karen Cornell, Tom McLaughlin, Rhonda Laycoe, Scott Sakamoto, Marilyn Russell, Dennis Brown, Irene Johnson.

Thespians member, Brian McLaughlin, diligently works on his part in the upcoming play.

Performers learned to depict . . .

the numerous and various characters which appeared in the four plays that were presented by the Cleveland dramatists this year. Thespians, who become members of the Cleveland chapter of the international honorary by completing one hundred hours of drama activity, both on stage and behind the scenes, were presented with the task of portraying a variety of characters in the four plays.

Following a traditional yearly custom, some Thespians journeyed to Ashland in the spring for the state-wide drama conference. The club also spent time raising funds, which hopefully will enable a few Thespians to attend the International Conference at the University of Indiana next year.

Competition in tournaments . . .

and invitational meets were challenging to the Speech Club's members and to the club's new advisor, Mr. Howard Siegel. As in the past, speech team membership was open to any member of the student body.

Much practice and advance preparation was put into the final invitational meet at Albany in November before competition with the PIL schools began." It was well worth our time spent, because the speech team came home with top honors, and we were awarded the sweepstakes trophy," commented Mr. Siegel.

Speakers, participating in the numerous meets that Cleveland entered during the year, had nine categories from which to choose their presentations. Humorous and serious interpretation, poetry, oratory, informative, debate, impromptu, extemporaneous and after dinner speaking were the areas open to the competitors.

Future Teachers of America, a club for students who are interested in seeking a teaching career, had the opportunity to visit different schools, and had exchange programs with other FTA members. Regional, state and national conferences, where methods of teaching and classes were observed, were held throughout the year.

Kathleen Krafve, preparing for the next meet, learns the vital importance of practice.

French, German

Members learned about customs . .

and traditions of the French people and their country through various topics and discussions presented at the French Club meetings. Besides gaining insight into both the culture and language of the French, the 41 club members actively participated in the Renaissance Week hootenany, and enjoyed a get together at Shakey's Pizza Parlor, which helped to acquaint new and old members.

The main goal for this year's German Club was to involve as many new people as possible in the different activities sponsored by the German speaking students. To achieve this goal, a wide range of diverse activities were organized and sponsored by the German Club. Members could choose to participate in bicycle riding trips throughout the city of Portland, to attend overnight camping trips at tourist sites and a dinner at a German restaurant.

"All of our hard work was quite successful because the club had a tremendous membership this year, and all of the members were extremely enthusiastic," commented German Club President Kim Wasser.

ADVISOR Mr. Vincent Amen

German club members, Tom McLaughlin, John Hoffnagle, and Kim Wasser, make use of an independent study period to meet with their advisor to make plans for their upcoming activities.

Activities proved successful . . .

and numerous for the 65 members of the Russian Club. A foreign language department hootenany and "Vecherinka", an evening of folk dancing sponsored by Cleveland for all Portland high school Russian students, were the major fall programs which attracted large groups of participants. Dinner at the Russian Renaissance Restaurant was enjoyed by the members, who, later in the year, created their own touch of Russian atmosphere in a Russian cook-in at Cleveland. Co-sponsoring monthly Russian films with Lincoln's and Wilson's Russian Clubs was a new activity for the organization.

Proceeds from the club's money raising projects were used for awards presented to graduating Russian students.

The Oriental Culture Society organized this year to unite the Oriental students "for social benefits so they might relate with one another as closely as they do with other races," according to Bruce Wong, president. Membership was open to any Cleveland student, but Orientals were encouraged to join. "Hopefully, more than a few have benefited from this cause," said secretary Roberta Wong.

The OCS treasury was steadily increased by the profits from several successful Oriental food sales. With these funds, the club established an OCS Scholarship, awarded annually to any foreign student attending Cleveland. "If our funds permit it, we will provide two or more of these scholarships," remarked Roberta.

Royal "C", Bowling

Seniors upended their elders, . . .

42-35, in the traditional Royal "C"-Faculty basketball game held in March. Tom McColloch and Mike Ferguson coached the senior boys' squad, which was composed of Varsity lettermen who had not played Varsity basketball. Halftime entertainment featured the six member faculty rally, masquerading as the "mothers" of the faculty team members.

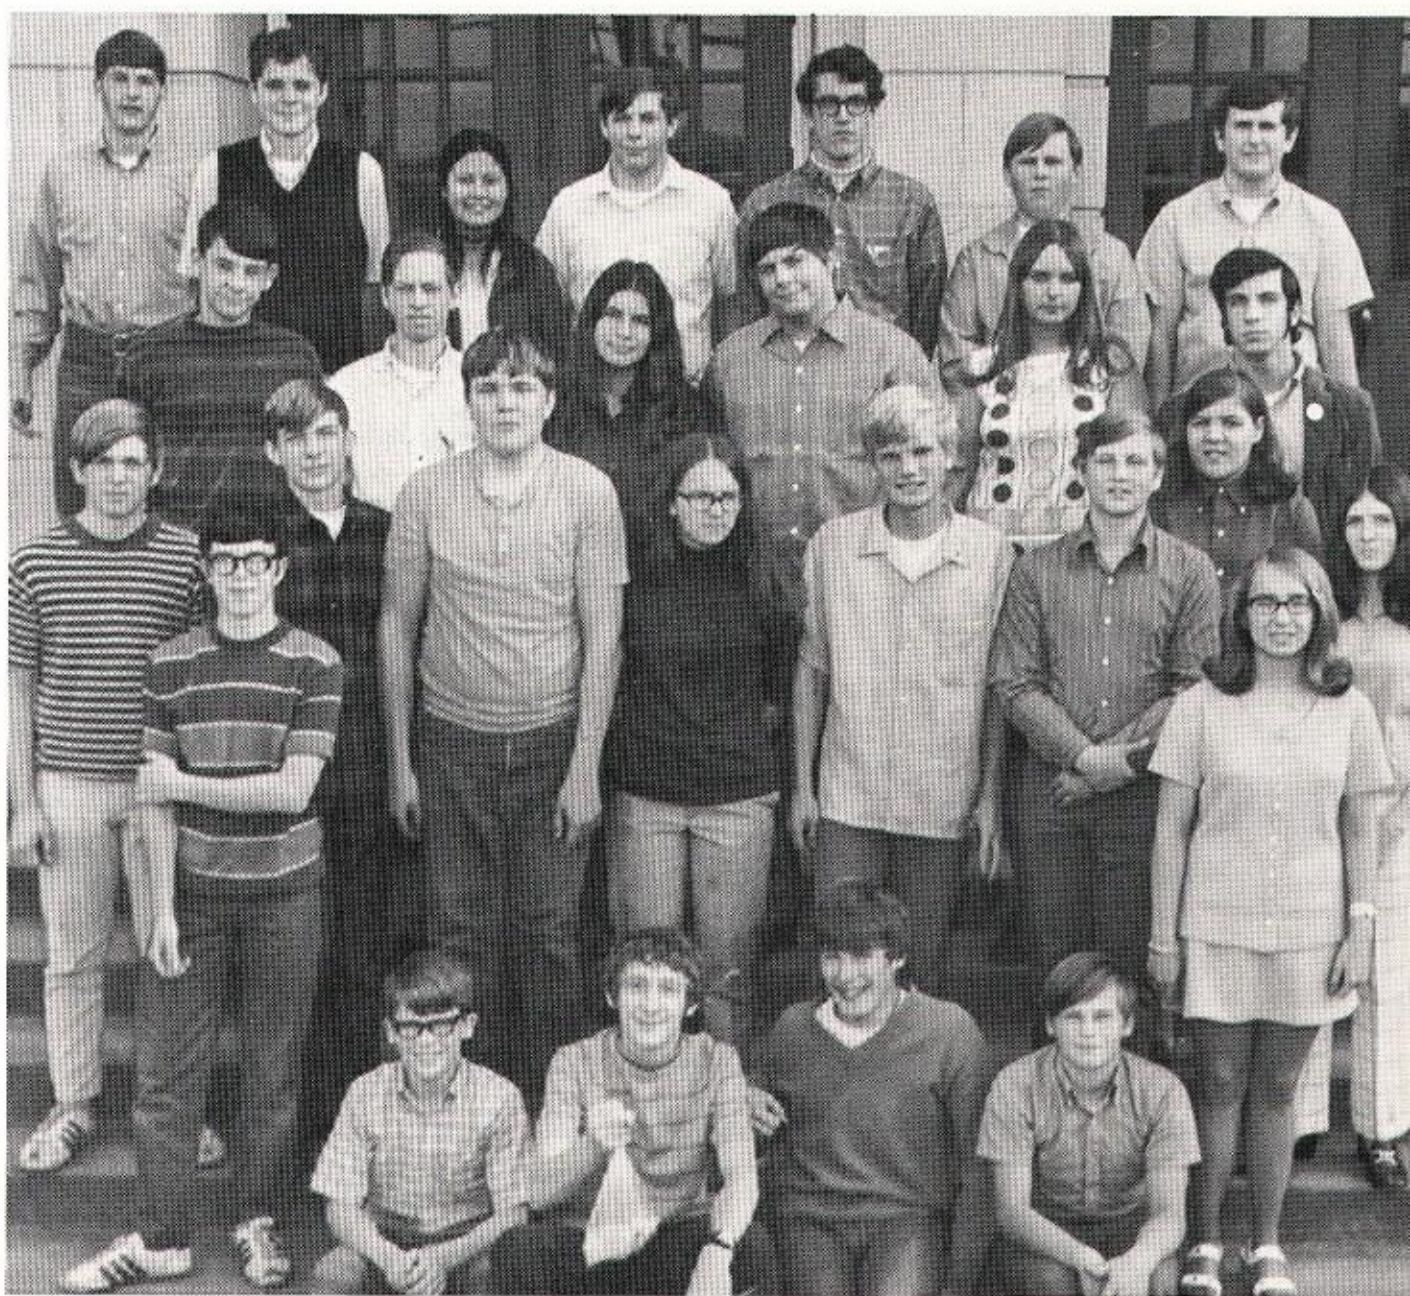

Royal "C" membership was awarded to athletes, participating in any sport, who earned a Varsity letter and who was "willing to actively participate in the club's activities," explained Chuck Floberg, president.

Each year the club sponsors the Fall, Winter and Spring Awards Banquets, which honor the participating athletes in each sport. Again this year, proceeds from sales made possible two scholarships which are annually presented to the most outstanding boy and girl letterwinners.

The Bowling Club met on Tuesdays at the East Side Bowling Alley to help each other learn or improve their game. In the annual year-end tournament, Cleveland was again victorious over their rivals from Franklin.

BSU, DECA

"To achieve unity and pride . . .

among the black people for identity purposes and togetherness was the main goal of the Black Student Union," explained Olivia Dorsey, secretary. Black Culture Week, held in February, was the club's major activity for the year and was highlighted by two "extremely well received" assemblies, said Olivia. Mr. Charles B. King, former director of the "Wings Over Jordan Choir" encouraged his audience's vocal participation during his performance and the student body responded with two standing ovations. "Thirty five minutes of Black Pride", the second assembly, featured six Cleveland girls, accompanied by Albert Hill on the drums and Mike Hepburn on the piano, who read selections of black poetry. The guest speaker was Dr. James Murethi, professor of African philosophy and history at Reed College, who spoke on black pride and African history. Olivia concluded the assembly by reminding the audience, "Black is beautiful."

The operation of "decapodge", an in-school student store specializing in candy, jewelry and stuffed animal sales, kept Cleveland's chapter of the Distributive Education Club of America busy again this year. DECA members not only gained the experience of direct working contact with customers, but also were eligible for recognition for accomplishment through national, state, and local competition.

Campus Life, Garden Society

typical of all high school age individuals brought Cleveland students together at Campus Life meetings held every other Tuesday night at a private home in the community. Anyone interested in the club's activities was welcome to attend.

Over 100 students participated in the first meeting of the year highlighted by a "Banana Bash." Admission to the affair was a banana, all of which created a giant banana split that encircled an outdoor patio. Visitors discussed common problems and watched films as the huge banana split was devoured.

A new club this year, the Garden Society, got off to a slow start, spending most of the first half of the year trying to organize. A Medieval bake sale during Renaissance Week was the first club project, followed by a tree planting expedition and an arts and crafts sale.

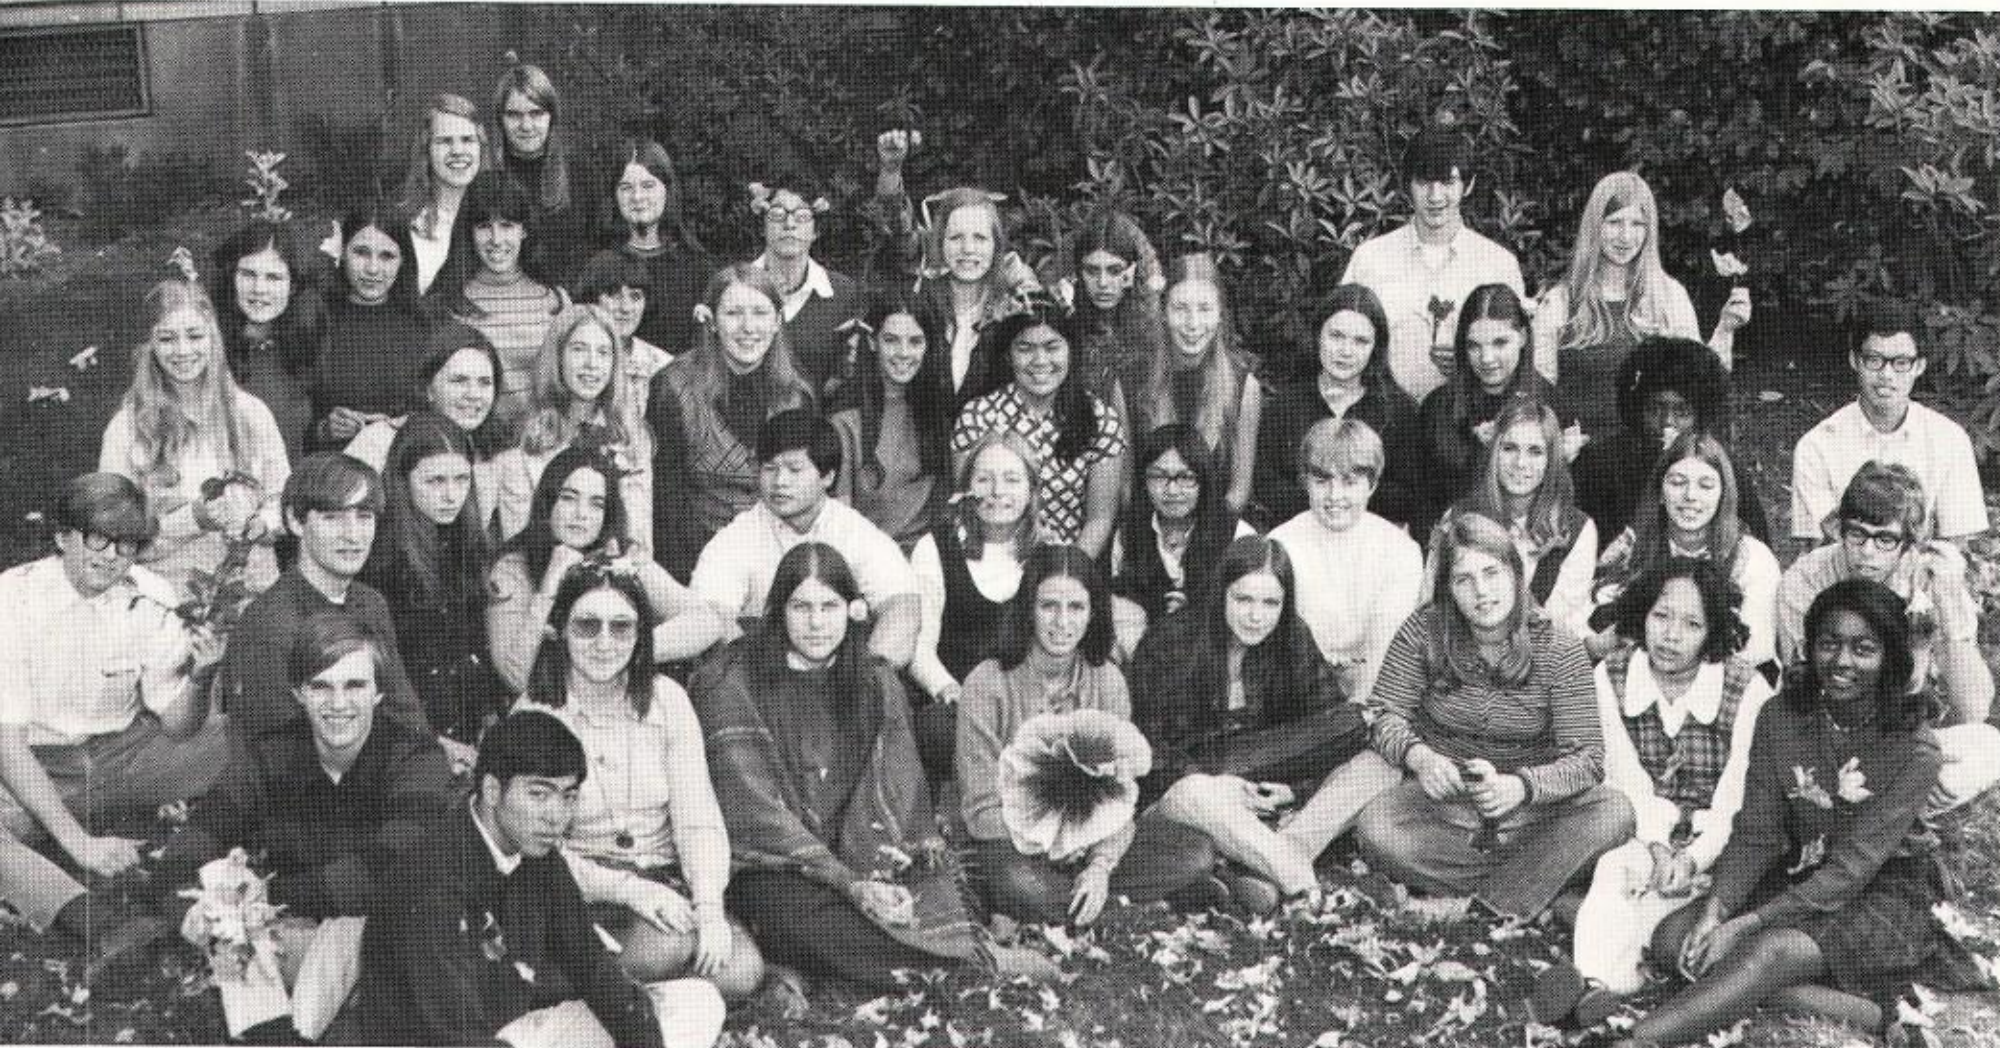

"Although the Garden Society was treated as a joke in the beginning, we have established an active membership and a working organization," commented President Margaret Case.

Joy Thompson listens intently to the discussion during the first Campus Life meeting.

IRL, Pep Band

Ignorance of our environment . . .

was the main concern of the International Relations League this year as the study topic dealt with the international aspects of the environmental crisis. "There is ignorance of the natural laws, and, generally, ignorance of how we relate to our surroundings. Before action can take place, we must be informed. The IRL, hopefully, is a learning organization," explained Dean Nolan, IRL president.

Several members attended the annual fall and spring statewide conferences to discuss with other students.

A spirited atmosphere was created by the Pep Band's attendance at pep assemblies and athletic events. The band continued to support the rally squad while they performed their routines.

Bicycle, Masque and Dagger

Cycling to faraway places . . .

was the sole purpose for the existence and organization of the Bicycling Club. "Emphasis was not on a strict club environment but instead was on enjoyment and relaxation. Many students have found cycling to and from school very refreshing," remarked John Hoffnagle. The school, recognizing the need, provided space in the parking lot to accommodate the bicycles.

Masque and Dagger, established to assist all students interested in drama with their acting, served as a stepping stone to Thespian membership. Masque and Dagger members, needing 100 hours to qualify for the Thespian organization, helped with scenery, lighting, make-up, props and costuming in the dramatic productions.

BICYCLE CLUB. SPORTS

after twenty six years of teaching and coaching at Cleveland.

J.O. Norton's illustrious career began in Yaktou, South Dakota on July 14, 1905. As a high school student, Mr. Norton participated in football, basketball, and baseball. Through the hard work he later became famous for, he starred in each.

Later, he attended Black Hills Teachers' College in South Dakota where, during the summer months, Mr. Norton played in the semi-pro league for such teams as the Sioux City Stockyards and, later, for the AA team of Columbia, South Carolina.

A few years later, at the tender age of 25, J.O. married Mabel Bell, who many of Mr. Norton's fellow associates consider the guiding light in his life.

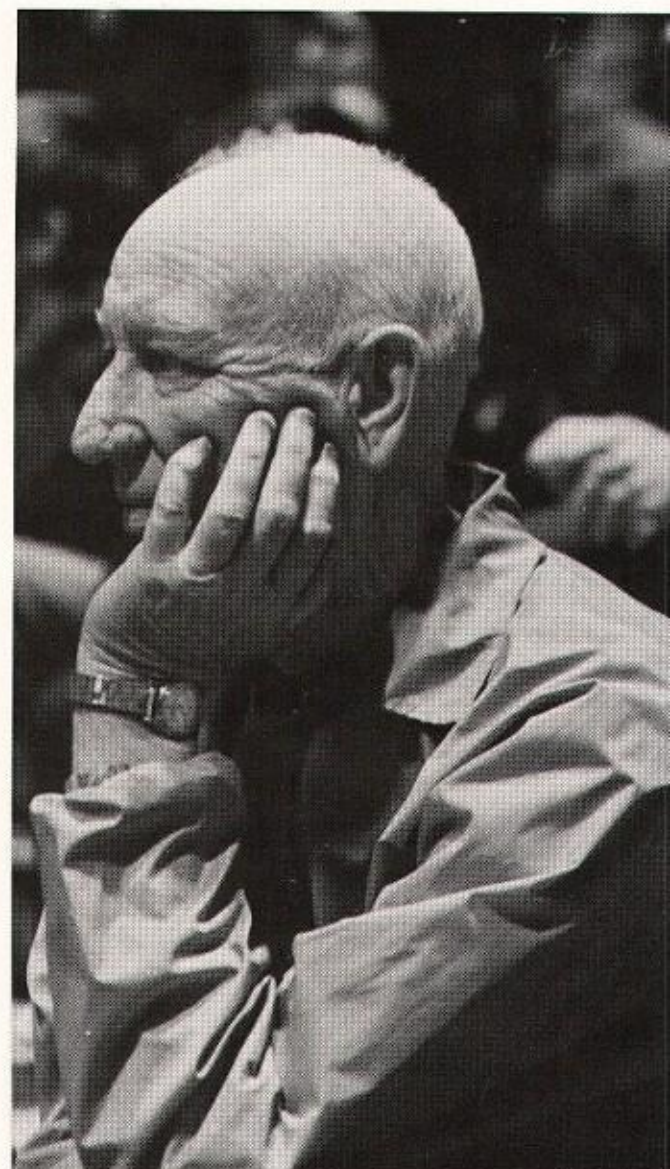

In 1944, Mr. Norton moved to Oregon. There he received his Master's Degree from the University of Oregon and for the past 26 years he has been teaching at CHS. The subjects he taught were social studies and physical education.

Besides teaching, J.O. spread his talents to other fields. He was athletic director at Cleveland for 10 years and was varsity coach in various sports. He coached basketball for eight years, baseball for six years and was assistant football coach for seven years.

Grateful acknowledgements of Mr. Norton's accomplishments were expressed by his associates of many years. "J.O. Norton has been a teacher, coach, athletic director, friend, and leader at Cleveland High School for the past 26 years. As Mr. Norton goes into retirement this spring, he carries with him the best wishes of his associates and students for a long "happy vacation," expressed Mr. Clifford J. Skinner, principal.

"Cleveland is losing perhaps one of the most versatile instructors in its history," remarked Mr. Floyd Harmon, curriculum vice principal.

Indians captured second place . . .

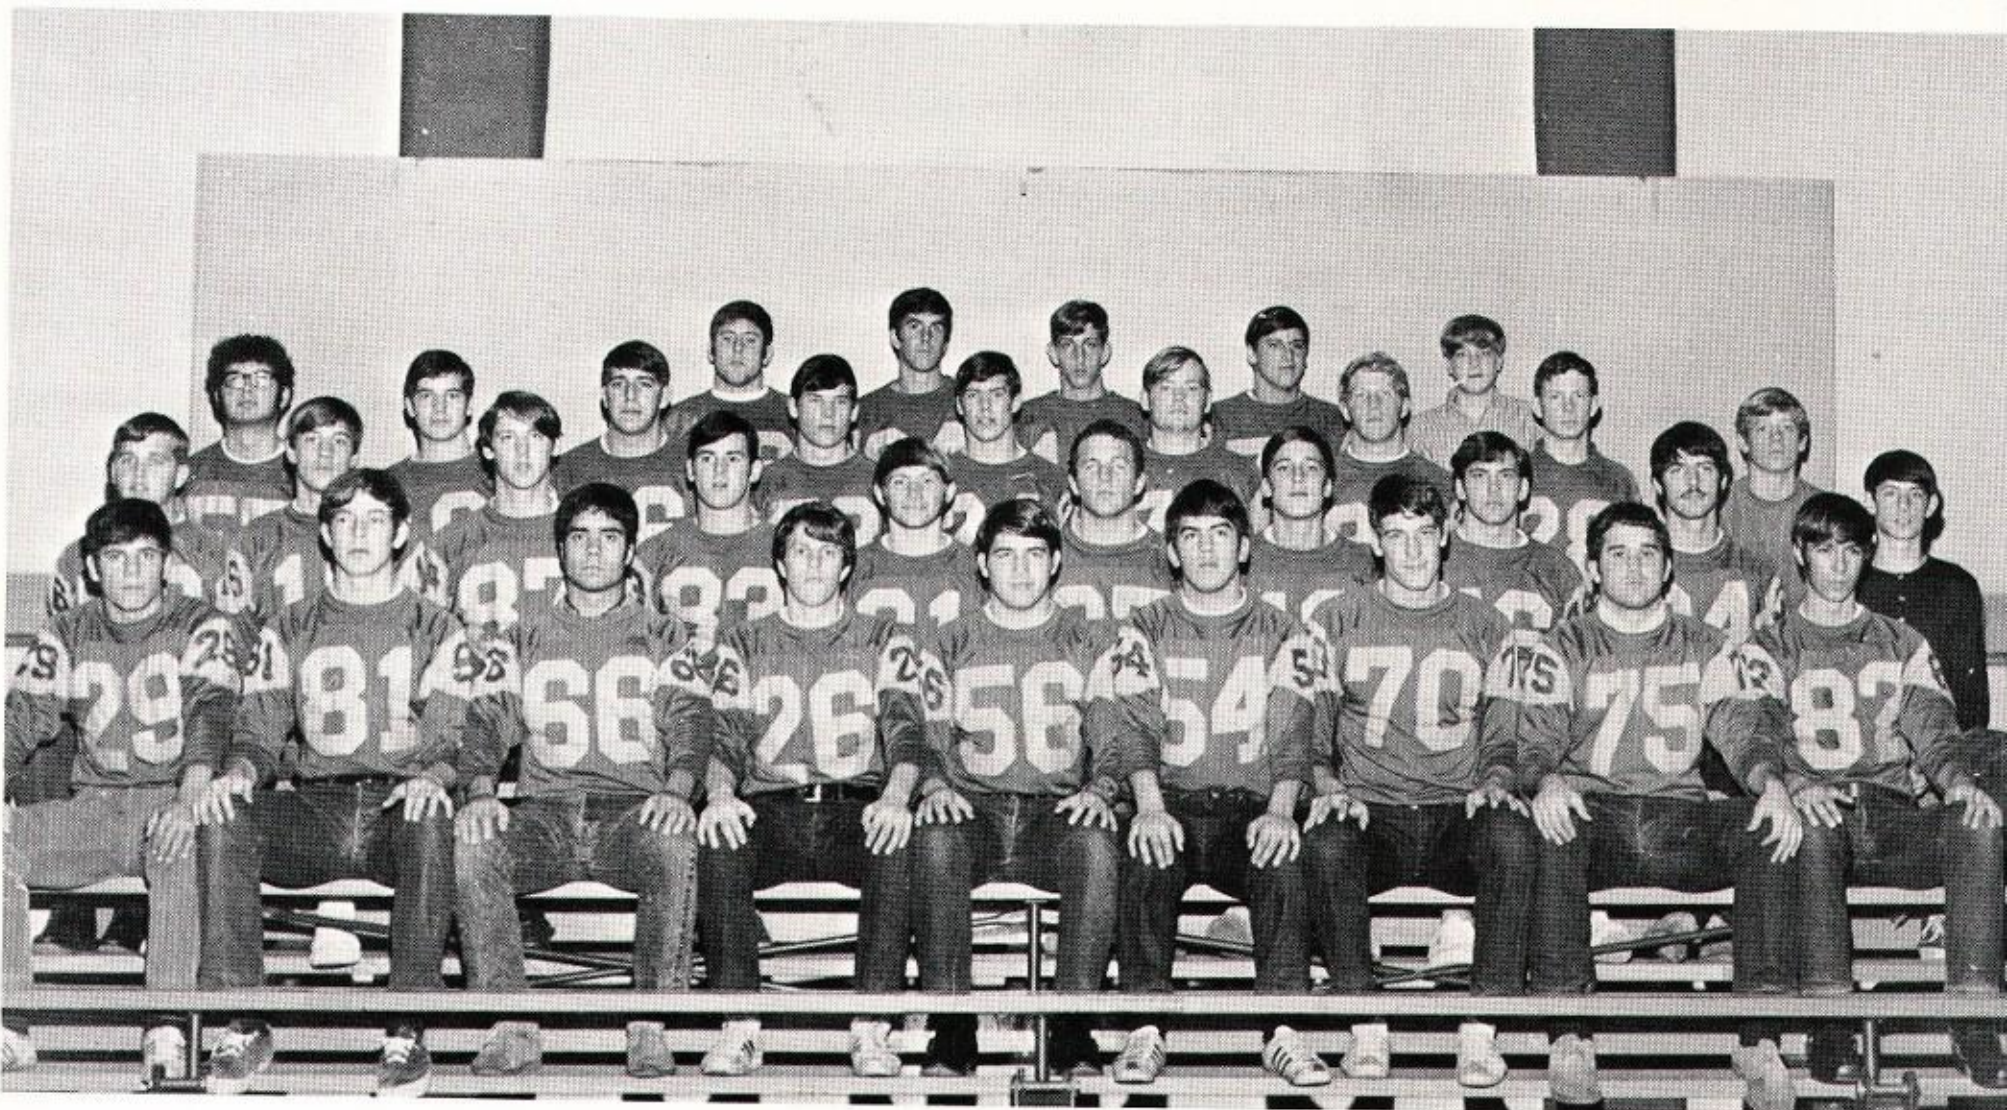

in the city standings with a 7-2 win-loss record, the best in the past 12 years. This record, coupled with "a very satisfying" win over Grant, made this season one to be remembered by CHS football fans.

Besides compiling a great team record, a few players broke some individual school records. Senior halfback Mike Ferguson set a new rushing record with 690 yards gained, and tied two others with 12 touchdowns and 72 points scored. Senior defensive halfback Mitch Culbertson broke the punt return mark by gaining 190 yards and senior place-kicker and split end Dave Newton established a new point after touchdown record with 19 kicks through the uprights. Junior Dave Norville broke the yards per carry mark with an 8.25 yard average.

Ten players were rewarded for their hard work and achievements with All-City berths. Receiving First Team recognition were seniors Ferguson, defensive lineman Bob Sauter, and offensive tackle Chuck Floberg. Garnering Second Team honors were senior defensive guard Mark Brandenburg and junior defensive end Harvey Charpentier. All-City Honorable Mention went to seniors Culbertson, offensive tackle Dave Cottingham, defensive lineman Jim Hargrove and junior quarterback Dave Hildreth.

At the Varsity Awards Banquet, five members of the team were cited for outstanding play. Recipient of the Best Lineman award was Floberg while Ferguson was named the Best Back. The Most Improved award went to Cottingham and Most Inspirational was captured by Hargrove. The Most Valuable Player, selected by his teammates, was Sauter, who also landed an All-State berth along with Ferguson and Floberg.

Senior All-City defensive end selection Kelly Fowler runs back an interception against Madison for a sizable gain as Harvey Charpentier, Bob Sauter, and Bill Gray provide interference.

Senior halfback Tom Barbour scores six more points in Cleveland's 49 to 13 romp over Adams, as a Patriot defender tries in vain to catch him on the tartan turf at the Civic Stadium.

J.V. Football

Inexperience plagued Warriors . . .

as the Junior Varsity ended with a 1-5-1 record. In their last two ball games, the Jayvee squad defeated the Franklin Quakers, 28-6, and then battled an excellent Grant team to a stand still before succumbing, 20-12.

Inexperience hindered the team early in the year as they dropped contests to the Lincoln Cardinals, Jackson Raiders, Madison Senators, and the Adams Patriots. The lone standoff was with a fine Marshall team, as they battled the Minutemen to a 13-13 tie.

"We started out really slow and couldn't put it together as our past scores indicate, but when we tied Marshall, things began to jell for us," commented Coach Roy Burright.

Cited as standouts for the season by Coaches Burright and Bob Schulz were sophomores Rick Hennessy at quarterback, halfback Glen Horton, defensive end Peter Slade, halfback Greg Hilliard, linebacker Ross Seeber, tackle Rich Marshall, linebacker Kim Johns, linebacker Ron Larsen, guard Greg Shay and guard Kevin Petty. Juniors Mike Brink and Bruce Heiberg were also credited for their fine efforts throughout the season.

"Our best game offensively and defensively was against Franklin and we should have beaten Grant and Marshall, but the breaks were all going in the different direction," added Coach Burright.

"These individuals should contribute greatly to the varsity cause next season," concluded Coach Burright.

Freshman Football

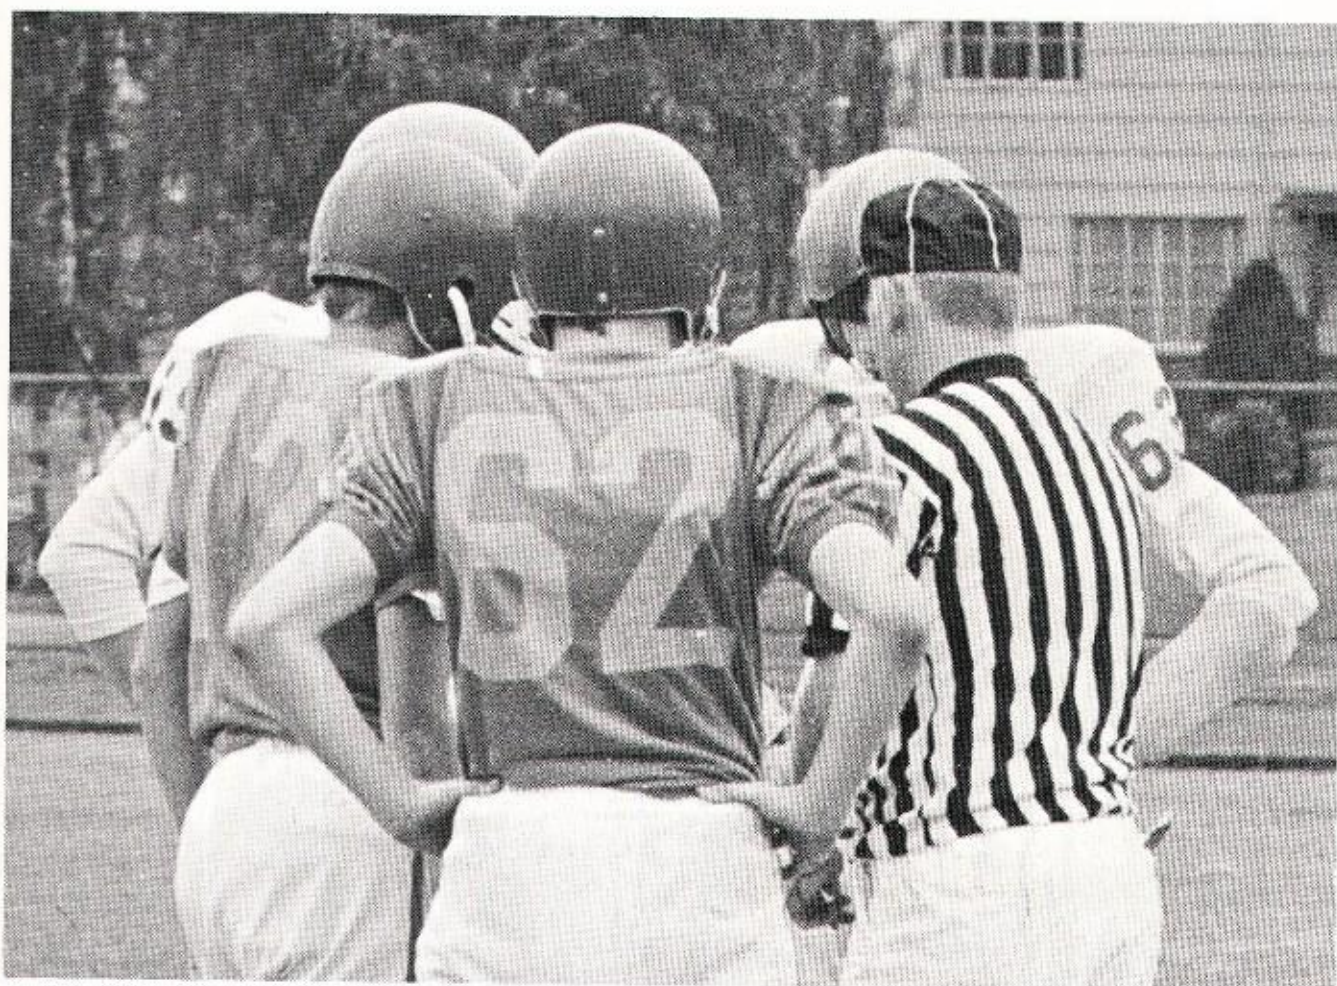

Young gridgers fought, but . . .

were unable to put it all together as the Freshmen ended up with a 1-5 record. The lone victory was chalked up against the Adams Patriots. The Frosh found themselves on the short end of the scoreboard against the Marshall Minutemen, Madison Senators, Jackson Raiders, Grant Generals, and the Franklin Quakers.

Players praised by Freshman

Coaches Al Benight and Cole Gardiner were linemen Bruce Hildreth, Steve McMurchie, and Keith Rader, and backs Jon Nachtwey, Steve Lambert, and Danny Medford.

"These boys will mature into fine varsity football players and will continue to improve as they go along just like the whole team did this season," commented Coach Benight.

Prior to the opening kick-off, sophomore co-captains Jon Nachtwey and Keith Rader meet co-captains of the Madison Senators to confer with the officials about the groundrules.

Cross Country

A mediocre harrier season . . .

was due to one of the "poorest Cross Country team turn-outs in recent years," according to head Cross Country Coach Gary Crook. The Varsity runners finished in the lower half of their division with a 2-3 win-loss record, while the Junior Varsity and Freshmen finished a dismal year with identical 1-4 win-loss records in league competition.

Senior Jim Borthwick, called "the most consistent performer" by Coach Crook, led the Varsity squad all year. Borthwick, who was presented "The Most Valuable Runner" award at the Fall Varsity Awards Banquet, was the top Cleveland finisher in every meet this season.

Also credited with contributing strong efforts were seniors George Kuiawa and Brian Fitzpatrick, and juniors Peter Williams, Jay Raskin and Bill Simpson.

Although Coach Crook expected the Freshman team to do better than their eventual 1-4 win-loss record, he did have praise for the determination of his rookie athletes. The most outstanding Frosh competitor was Grant Kirkham who, like Borthwick, led his teammates across the finish line in every meet.

Coach Crook, looking forward to his eighth year of coaching at Cleveland and "some promising Varsity and Junior Varsity returning lettermen" expects his Cross Country teams to do "quite a bit better" in PIL harrier action next year.

Tankers finished low in PIL . . .

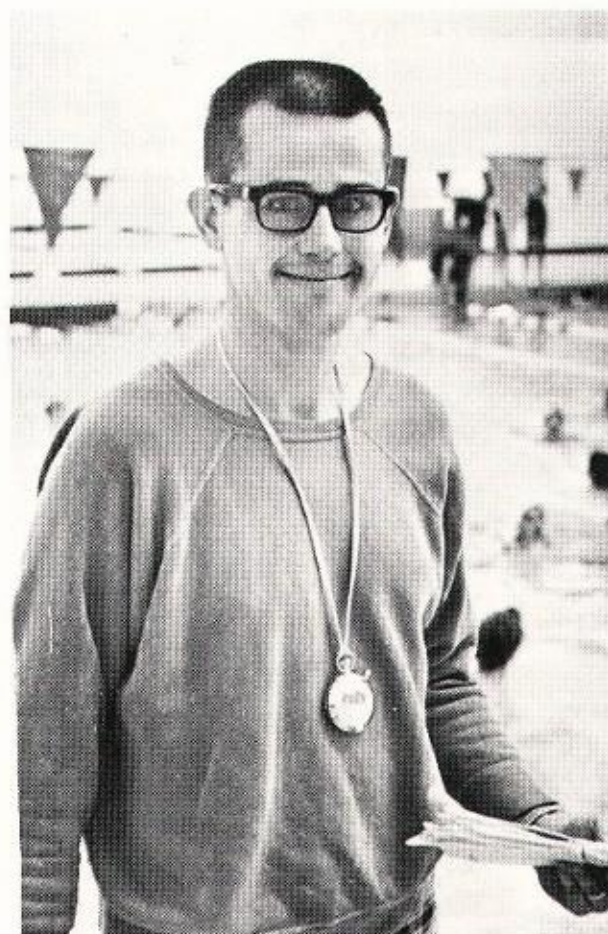

standings due to "a lack of experience," according to Coaches Mrs. Judy Dean and Mr. Ron Hustead. The girls, with a 1-4 win-loss record, captured sixth place in city and were led by Jill Kotchik, Trish Clark, Jeanette and Jessica Weiss, Althea Payne, and Karen Hoppes. Mrs. Dean cited "team unity" as the key to success and said, "The team improved considerably from the beginning of the year."

The boys, compiling a 1-4 record, suffered their first losing season under Coach Hustead. Junior Herb Naylor did an "outstanding job" finishing sixth in the city 400 yd. free-style competition. "The boys learned a lot and showed improvement throughout the season," related Mr. Hustead.

Junior award winner Jay Raskin shows his good diving form and technique, which helped him finish strongly in many of Cleveland's swimming meets this year at the Lewis and Clark pool.

Fall Rally

Striving for school support . . .

was the chief aim of the Fall Varsity Rally. Many activities helped involve the student body in the various fall sports. Starting the season off with a large turnout at the Jamboree, Cleveland showed its first spark of enthusiasm that continued to grow throughout the season. "Student participation in car rallies and pep assemblies proved that spirit was anything but apathetic," said Cindy Blackwelder, a Rally member.

Money raised in candy, ribbon, and balloon sales was used to buy "morale boosters" for the team members before most games.

Traditional nick-the-nickel assemblies were highlighted by the return of Mr. Dan Mitola, former CHS football player and originator of the nickel tradition. Before a wildly cheering student body, Mr. Mitola presented Mr. Clifford Skinner, principal, with the nickel that he found in 1928. Mr. Skinner, accepting the coin on behalf of the student body, announced that the lucky coin would be enshrined so it would become a permanent part of Cleveland's football history.

Carnations were presented to the Rally by team captains, Kelly Fowler and Chuck Floberg in this assembly.

Cheering fans remained loyal . . .

despite a disappointing basketball season, as they helped the Spring Rally create a spirited and enthusiastic atmosphere at most of the contests during the 22 game season. Again this year, Cleveland's Pep Band added volume as well as excitement to the home games.

Pep assemblies were planned to increase student interest in both basketball and wrestling and to recognize the participating Varsity athletes. The last assembly of the season featured a skit to help raise money for the Red Cross, the introduction of the senior basketball players and wrestlers, and the presentation of a dozen long stemmed roses to rally advisor, Miss Diane Nowak. Posters, balloons, and confetti cluttered Cleveland's halls publicizing the Tuesday and Friday games and matches.

"Unity and friendship between other school, athletes, and rallies was our most important goal this season," commented Olivia Dorsey, senior varsity rally member.

Intramurals

were the objectives of the students and faculty who participated in the Intramural program of 1970-71. The activities were numerous as participants were able to engage in competitive volleyball, basketball, ping pong, and badminton. Gymnastics was also offered in the curriculum.

Coordinator Mrs. Carol Bishop, assisted by Mr. Larry Pattee, experimented with a swimming program in the fall, but a lack of interest forced its cancellation.

Highlights of the Intramural year were the annual Knights' volleyball and basketball tournaments. Sixteen teams competed for the top spot in the volleyball tourney with Watt's Wranglers capturing first. The basketball tournament was won by the A.F.E.P.'s.

Exhaustion overcomes junior Mike McDonnell as he takes it easy and enjoys a well deserved rest on the mini-tramp following a strenuous, but rewarding, workout on the horizontal bar.

Junior Paula Apa and senior Carole Locke combine grace and skill as they perform a ballet upon the narrow balance beam while taking advantage of the gymnastic facilities available.

Basketball was a very popular sport during the Wednesday night sessions of Intramurals, as shown by freshman Danny Medford who goes up high to haul down a rebound during a rough game.

Maplemen struggled for third . . .

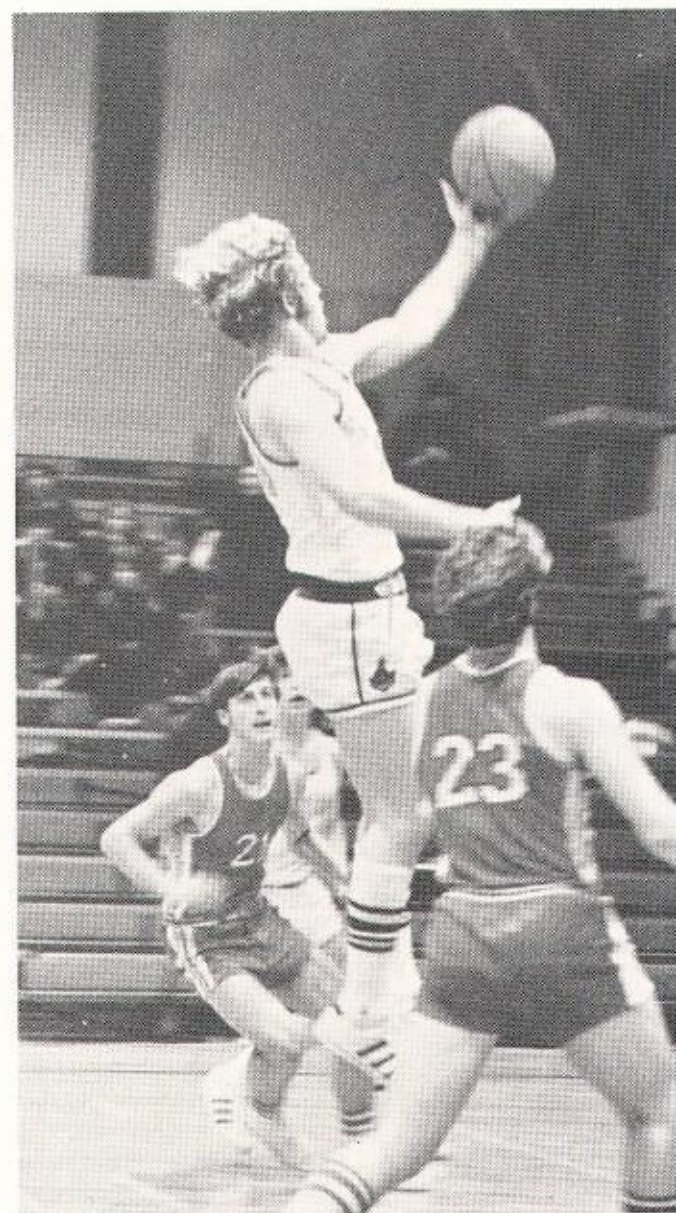

place in the PIL Varsity basketball Green Division as they finished the season with a 5-12 win-loss record. The Tribe was led by new head Coach Gary Roy, who came to Cleveland after coaching four years at Wy'east of the Wilco League.

The Varsity squad, which was hurt by the lack of a big, tall center tried to make up for it with "good defense, competitive spirit and hot shooting throughout most of the season," explained Coach Roy.

Outstanding performers cited by Mr. Roy for the Indians this year were seniors Tom McColloch, Mike Ferguson, Dennis Brown and sophomore Bill Gray. Team captain McColloch, who led the team in points scored with 301 and the highest average with 15.9 points per game, was voted the "Most Valuable Player" and first team All-City in the Eastern Division. Ferguson, who was right behind McColloch in total points scored (278) and in rebounds (McColloch 211, Ferguson 146) showed steady improvement throughout the season and was described by Coach Roy as a "100% ballplayer." Brown, who had his best game against the Jackson Raiders when he scored 23 points and had eight rebounds, sported a good field goal percentage during the year. Gray, whom Coach Roy called "an excellent defensive player who played with a lot of poise for a sophomore" figures to be a team leader the next two seasons.

"Good shooting should be one of Cleveland's strong points again next year, but the lack of a really big center will again hurt us," predicted the head coach.

J.V. Basketball

with an 8-9 win-loss record in PIL J.V. action. Numerous injuries to key players and the need for some to compete on the Varsity level sometimes during the season hampered the squad throughout the year as they found it difficult to play consistently.

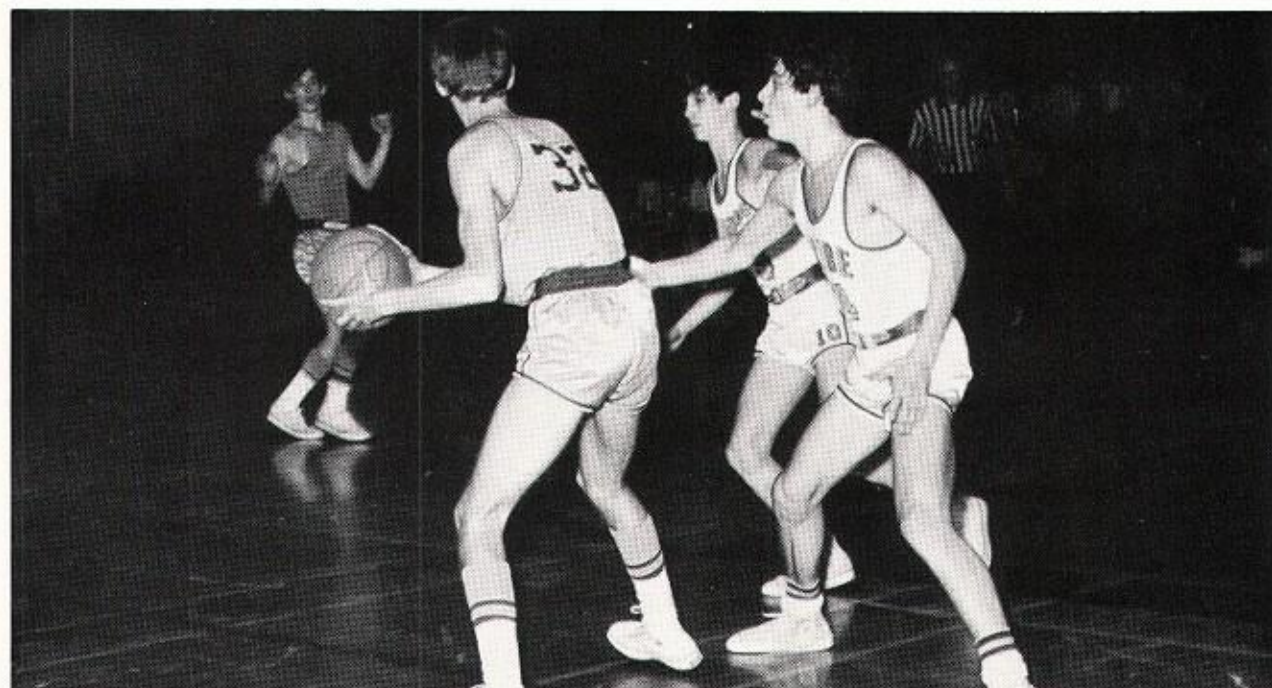

The Indians picked up wins against Benson, Grant, Jackson, Marshall, Lincoln, Madison and Franklin.

After losing their first game, the J.V.'s fought back to win seven of their next 11 games, but then the Tribe hit a season-ending tailspin as they only managed one win in their next five contests.

"As the season progressed, we began playing better basketball, but we were hurt by our inability to play consistently and our lack of any great height also made the season a little rougher," explained Coach Gene Flippin.

Cited for outstanding play by Coach Flippin were sophomores Steve Stadum, Tim White, Jim Peterson, Mark Lindquist and Rich Winter.

Sophomore Mark Lindquist shows no ill effects of an early season knee injury as he leads the famed Cleveland fast break as sophomore Marty Leo and junior Glenn Lambert trail behind.

Cagers ended season dismally . . .

as they lost their last four freshmen basketball games enroute to a 3-9 win-loss record. The young warriors scattered their victories throughout the season managing only one win in their last seven outings against PIL competitors.

The Indian's victims were the Washington Colonials, Lincoln Cardinals and Roosevelt Roughriders.

The season was characterized by the Frosh's inability to win the close ball games as they lost several games by three points or less.

"We played well overall and our season hasn't been as bad as our record indicates," analyzed Coach Robert Freeman. "Some of these boys show great potential for their J.V. and Varsity careers," summed up Coach Freeman.

Cited by Coach Freeman for good play throughout the season were Kelly Smith, Steve McMurchie, Aaron Koskello, Danny Medford and Steve Lambert.

Grapplers toppled opponents . . .

as they finished the year tied for third place with a 10-2 win-loss record in the PIL Varsity race. The squad competed disappointingly in six pre-season matches, but progressed steadily during the season with victories over 10 opponents in dual meet action. The twice defeated matmen lost to Marshall, the dual meet champions, by a score of 25-21 and to Grant, the second place team, 24-19.

"I didn't expect much at the beginning of the year but the team progressed greatly during the season and with the help of a couple of late season competitors, we placed higher than I had expected," explained Coach Don York.

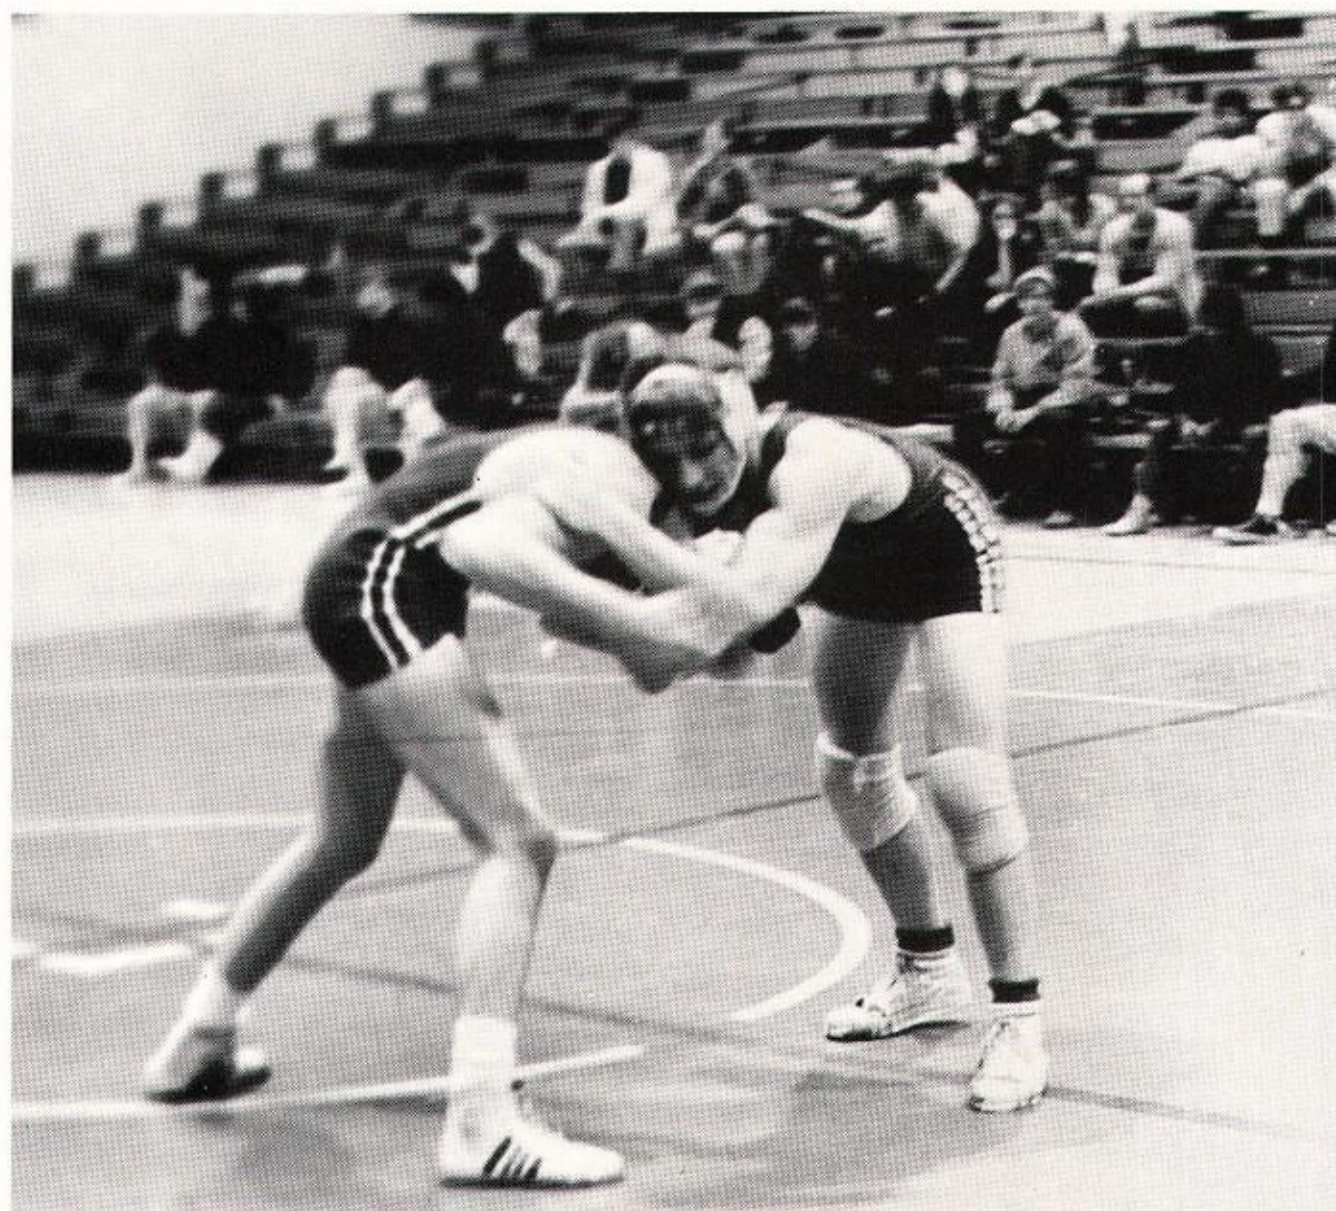

Cleveland had nine seeded positions in the City Meet at Grant in March but after first round action, only four grapplers remained in contention. Co-captain Brian Fitzpatrick narrowly missed going to state as he placed third in the 115 lb. weight division and Bob Sauter, a 191 lb. performer who had an impressive 14-2-1 record, also placed third. State qualifiers were Tim Engles, who finished second in the 178 lb. weight class and Dave Cottingham, who went undefeated through the season and beat his Grant opponent for the 191 lb. division city championship. Both lost their opening round matches at the State Meet in Corvallis.

At the Winter Varsity Awards Banquet, held at Earl Kelly's Buffet Restaurant, Cottingham was announced recipient of the Royal "C" Outstanding Athlete Award for Wrestling and junior Jim Holmes and senior George Kuiawa were named 'Most Improved Wrestlers' for the season.

Freshman Wrestling

Young matmen showed strength . . .

as they recorded a 7-3 win-loss record, good enough for a third place finish in the city. The team started their season by placing fourth in the Sandy tournament which included teams from Cleveland, Sandy, Marshall, and Silverton. This was one of the few poor finishes for the Tribe all year.

At the end of the season the squad participated in Benson's annual freshman tournament. Besides Cleveland and Benson, Jefferson and Franklin also competed. The Tribe had two individual champs, Dan Chaney, wrestling in the 157 lb. weight division, and Mitch Ward, in the 168 lb. division. Ward also finished the season with a 7-1 record, which was the team's best.

Standouts were Jim Sager, Mike Kraushaar, Craig Wong, Bruce Hildreth, Scott Ruse, Jeff Dorn, and Ron Simpson. "The squad had a lot of physical potential and showed improvement, but they lacked a good mental attitude at the beginning of the season which hurt their final record," explained Coach Jim Wilkin.

Indians displayed authority . . .

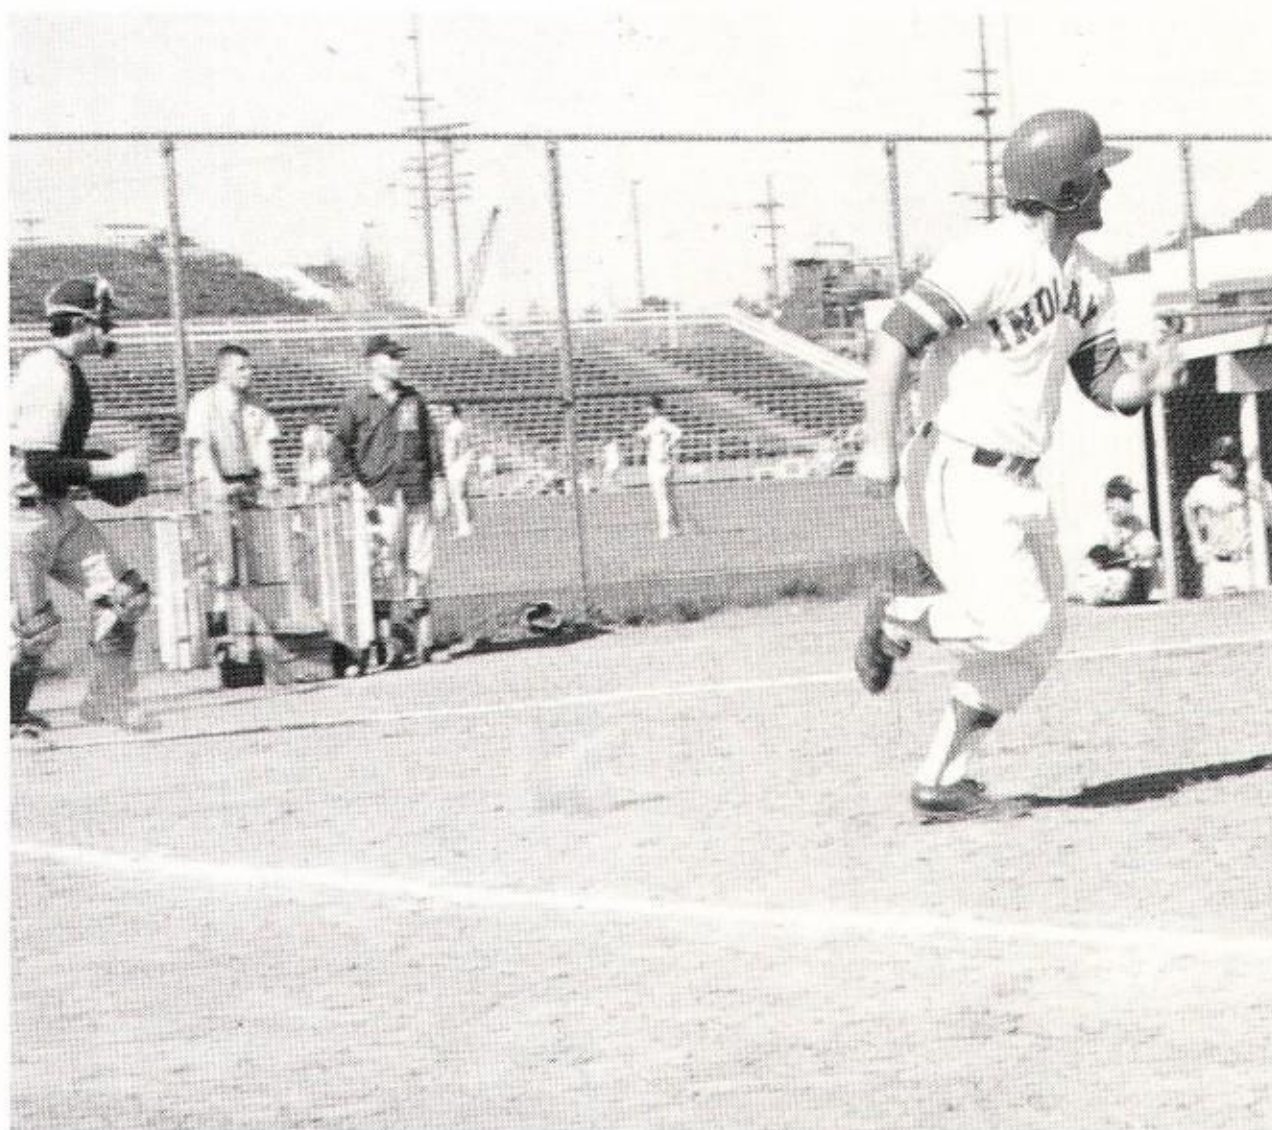

as they recorded a 10 win, 7 loss, 1 tie record en route to a second place finish in the PIL East Division. The Tribe's season was highlighted by five straight wins over Jackson, Grant, Adams, Franklin and Marshall. In this winning streak, the Varsity warriors slammed 50 hits, scored 40 runs and recorded three shutouts.

"The season was very satisfying in terms of the efforts given by every member of the ball club. Although we didn't accomplish our over-all goal of capturing the City title, our players showed they had the ability to compete with anybody," complimented Coach Jerry Gatto.

The team was led by senior Pat McClellan, who was named All-City first team and All-State honorable mention shortstop; junior Bill Simpson, All-City and All-State first team third baseman; senior catcher Kelly Fowler, senior outfielder Tom Barbour and junior pitcher Dan Lehman, All-City honorable mentions. McClellan, Simpson, Fowler and Lehman all played for the East in the annual PIL East-West All-Star game. Also, McClellan received the Royal "C" trophy; Fowler, the Most Inspirational; Barbour, the Most Improved, and Mark Pagano, Most Outstanding Rookie.

Team showed improvement...

as the J.V. baseball squad finished the season with six consecutive wins. Poor hitting plagued the young Indians early in league action as they completed the first half of play with a poor 1-5 win-loss record. The lone victory was chalked up against Washington. While the pitching continued to be strong, the Tribe got things going at the plate and ended with a spotless 6-0 second half record. The six straight victories were achieved against Grant, Benson, Lincoln, Jackson, Jefferson and Franklin.

Leading the Redskins at the plate were sophomores Mark Lindquist, Jay Chase and Glen Horton. The mound staff was bolstered by Keith Frangipani (2-0), Larry Kraaushire (3-1) and John Barger (2-1).

"I was really proud of the way the kids came back. We played real good ball the second half," said Coach Robert Freeman.

Cindermen finish season 4-4 . . .

in dual meet competition this year, but the Tribe bounced back and compiled enough points to capture sixth place in the City Meet.

"The 1971 track team performed to the best of its ability and showed continued improvement from meet to meet throughout the season," commented Coach Al Benight.

Leading the Tribe were seniors Bob Sauter, Jim Borthwick, Dennis Brown, Jim Hargrove, Bob Sammis, Eric Landen and juniors Louis Franklin and Jose Curtis.

Sauter took the City title in the shot put with a heave of 55'11" and received the Royal "C" Most Valuable Trackman award, which was voted him by his teammates.

Borthwick, probably the most consistent performer of the year, captured fifth place in the City mile.

Hargrove, voted the Most Inspirational performer by his Varsity coaches, set a Cleveland record by pole vaulting 12'3" in the City Meet. The old record of 12'2" was set in 1959.

Sammis, clad in sunglasses, high jumped his way into the record books by leaping 6'2" to tie a previous mark.

Franklin, who scored the most points in track history for the Indians, placed third in the City Meet in the 100 yard dash and fifth in City in the 220 yard dash. His 9.9 time for the 100 yard dash also tied the existing Cleveland record for that event.

Louis Franklin and Jad Lloyd strain to capture another Tribe victory in the 100 yard dash.

The quick pace of the grueling mile race is evident on the faces of junior Peter Williams and seniors Jim Borthwick and George Kuiawa in their meet with the city champion Grant Generals.

Senior Dennis Brown picks them up and lays them down in winning an other 440 yard dash.

The importance of good timing is shown as junior Dave Norville receives the baton from junior Jad Lloyd while the Grant Generals struggle to remain close in the fast-paced 440 yard relay.

Junior Britt Green becomes sandwiched between two Grant Generals as he struggles for a second place finish and more points for Cleveland in the Tribe's heartbreaking loss to Grant.

Louis Franklin leads Jad Lloyd and Gary Gatto to the tape to sweep the 100 yard dash.

Senior Bob Sauter shows the form which earned him the city championship in the shot.

Deep concentration and great form is needed to be good in any hurdle event and senior Eric Landen displays both as he clears a hurdle en route to second place behind his Adams opponent.

Senior high jumper Bob Sammis, the originator of the "Fosbury Flop" at Cleveland, clears the bar with a tremendous leap, which made him one of the best high jumpers in CHS history.

Spikers completed a fine year . . .

as they finished their dual meet season with a 6-2 win-loss record and a fourth place in the City Meet. The young trackmen defeated Ft. Vancouver, Jefferson, Marshall, Adams, Franklin and Washington during the regular season.

Cleveland had two J.V. city champions as Glen Lyon took first in the long jump and Rich Winters captured the top spot in the javelin.

Cited by Coach Al Benight as being outstanding were Bill Gray, Steve Pulido, Dan Kaiser and Ken Yada.

Utilizing every muscle and fibre in his body, junior Jim Fuller matches strides with his Grant opponent in order to maintain the lead he has built up in the fast-paced 440 yard dash.

Sophomore Ken Yada soars through the air and stretches for those few extra inches.

Sophomore Jon Nachtwey displays one of the expressions involved in the field of track as he clears the final hurdle en route to a first place finish and five points for Cleveland.

Every ounce of strength is needed as Brad Retchless uncorks a mighty heave in the discus.

Grim determination is evident on the face of junior letter-winner Richard Marshall as he attacks the hurdle during J.V. cinder competition on Cleveland's home quarter-mile track.

Nels Larsen and teammate Eric Ellis breast the tape in the 100 yard dash behind their Grant opponent to pick up valuable points towards a team victory in this dual meet at Cleveland.

Don Henderson grimaces as he leads his two Frosh teammates towards the finish line.

Papooses fell short in City . . .

as they tied three other teams for last place, but the youngest trackmen did manage three wins in their dual meet season as they defeated Jefferson, Adams and Washington.

During the City Relays, held in the middle of the cinder season, the frosh placed eighth in the field.

"The freshman squad was a good one with lots of potential for next year," said Coach Al Benight. Recognized by their coaches for performing notably all season were Eric Ellis, Grant Kirkham, Jon Nachtwey, Kelly Smith, Mitch Ward, Scott McDonald, Nels Larsen and Dan Chaney.

Nothing is more exciting than a photo finish at a track meet and it would seem that Essie Essiet is headed for just that as he runs stride for stride with his Grant General opponent.

Hurdles come easy to Jim Kaplon as he leads his Washington opponent by a head and a leg.

Grant Kirkham grabs the lead from teammate Keith Rader in the mile run as they both turn on their finishing kicks with hopes of victory in their dual meet with the Grant Generals.

Sophomore Benita Lloyd successfully passes off to freshman Sandra Schoates as they race well ahead of their Marshall opponents in the 440 relay competition during City Meet action.

Capturing first place in City . . .

the victorious Girls' Track team, organized only three years ago, never lost a meet all season. In the City Meet, 13 girls placed, three placing high enough to qualify for the State Meet held May 14 and 15 in Springfield, near Eugene.

The Cleveland track women, coached by Mrs. Carol Bishop and Mrs. Judy Dean, won the City Meet scoring 90 points to second place Jefferson's 70. Eleven other schools competed in the City Meet. Senior Linda Rufner went on to the State Meet after she placed first in the 880 run and second in the mile run. She was joined by senior Mary Cameron who won both the javelin and discus competition. Both girls have qualified for the State Meet for the past three years. Freshman Kim Hennessy also went to the State Meet after placing second in the 880 run, with a time only two seconds slower than Linda's. All three girls failed to place in the State Meet as illness and poor weather hampered Cleveland's entrants.

"We are losing two outstanding seniors, but we have good potential for next year," commented Mrs. Bishop.

Mary Cameron, who went to State in the discus and javelin competition, shows good form.

Senior Linda Rufner competes in the 880 run which she won a third time at the City Meet.

Freshman Donna White concentrates as she races for the finish of the 100 meter hurdles.

Three strokes cost linksters . . .

a place in the State golf tournament as Wilson, Lincoln, and Grant finished ahead of the Tribe men in district competition.

Leading the Indians all year were seniors Rich Perkel, Mike Cordes, Rob Cumpston, and sophomores Steve Brink, Dave Forester and John Norville.

The girls team, hampered by lack of experience, finished their season with a 5-4-1 record.

Heading the squaws squad were juniors Lynn Ferguson, Nancy Hryciw, Debby Yeager, Sheila Robinson, Linda Lazzeroni, and Karen Hoppes.

After a long match Rob Cumpston, the team's number two player, lines up a ninth hole chip shot which could determine the outcome of the match against the Jefferson Democrats.

Junior Sheila Robinson hits the ball out of the rough and back onto the fairway.

Tennis

Finishing third in district . . .

the Cleveland boys' tennis team sent three players to the State Meet, while the unlucky girls' team won only two of six matches for the fourth place spot in their division.

The boys, led by seniors Rich Layman and Alan Montrose, won 11 of 12 matches, missing a division title by only one point in the match against Grant. "Five of the first seven players were seniors and will be missed very much next year," commented Coach Paul George. Layman, Montrose and sophomore Gary Carnese qualified for the State Meet held May 21 and 22 in Portland.

The girls' team, coached by Mrs. Margaret Gordon, won matches against Jefferson and Madison, but lost to Franklin, Grant, Marshall, and Adams.

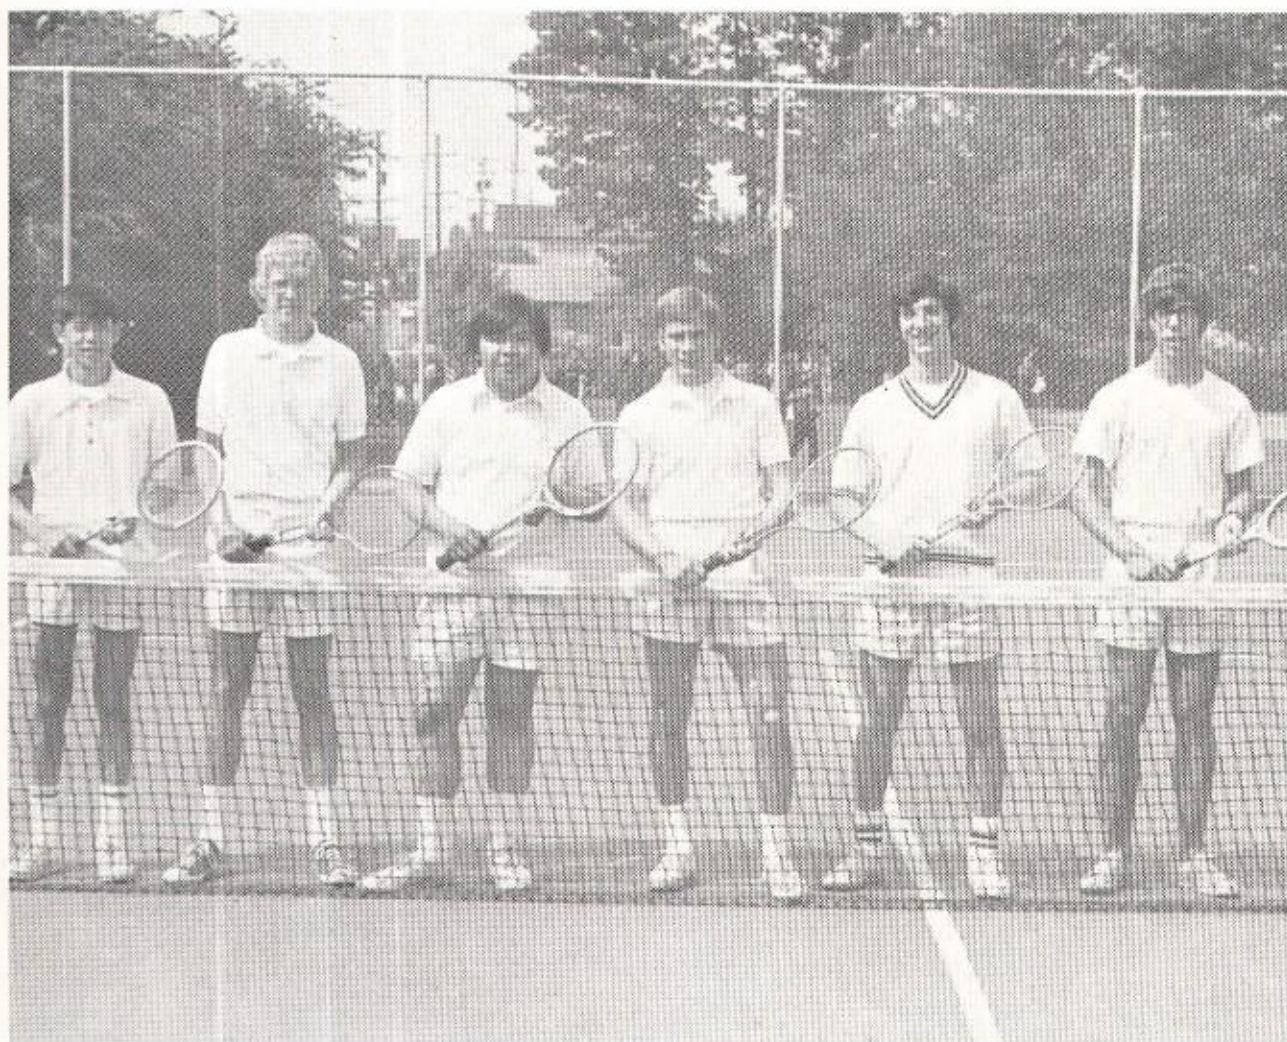

Straining, sophomore Scott Corbett reveals the effort he puts into his tennis games.

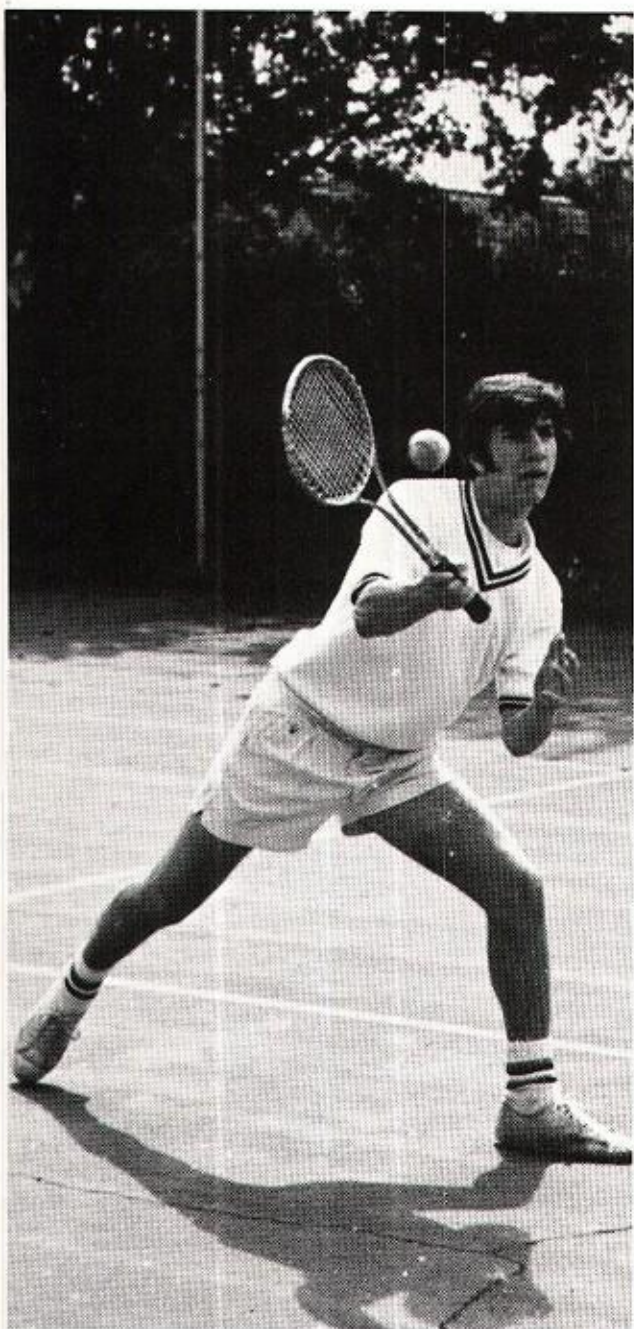

Senior Cynthia Leo patiently stands by and watches as her teammate, junior Amy Mitchell, takes a swing at the ball, demonstrating her own personal technique and form.

GIRLS' TENNIS. Amy Mitchell, Cindy Campbell, Gayle Sternberg, Cynthia Leo, Cheryl Vingelen.

BOYS' TENNIS. Craig Wong, Scott Corbett, Matt Chan, Rich Layman, Alan Montrose, Stuart Spring.

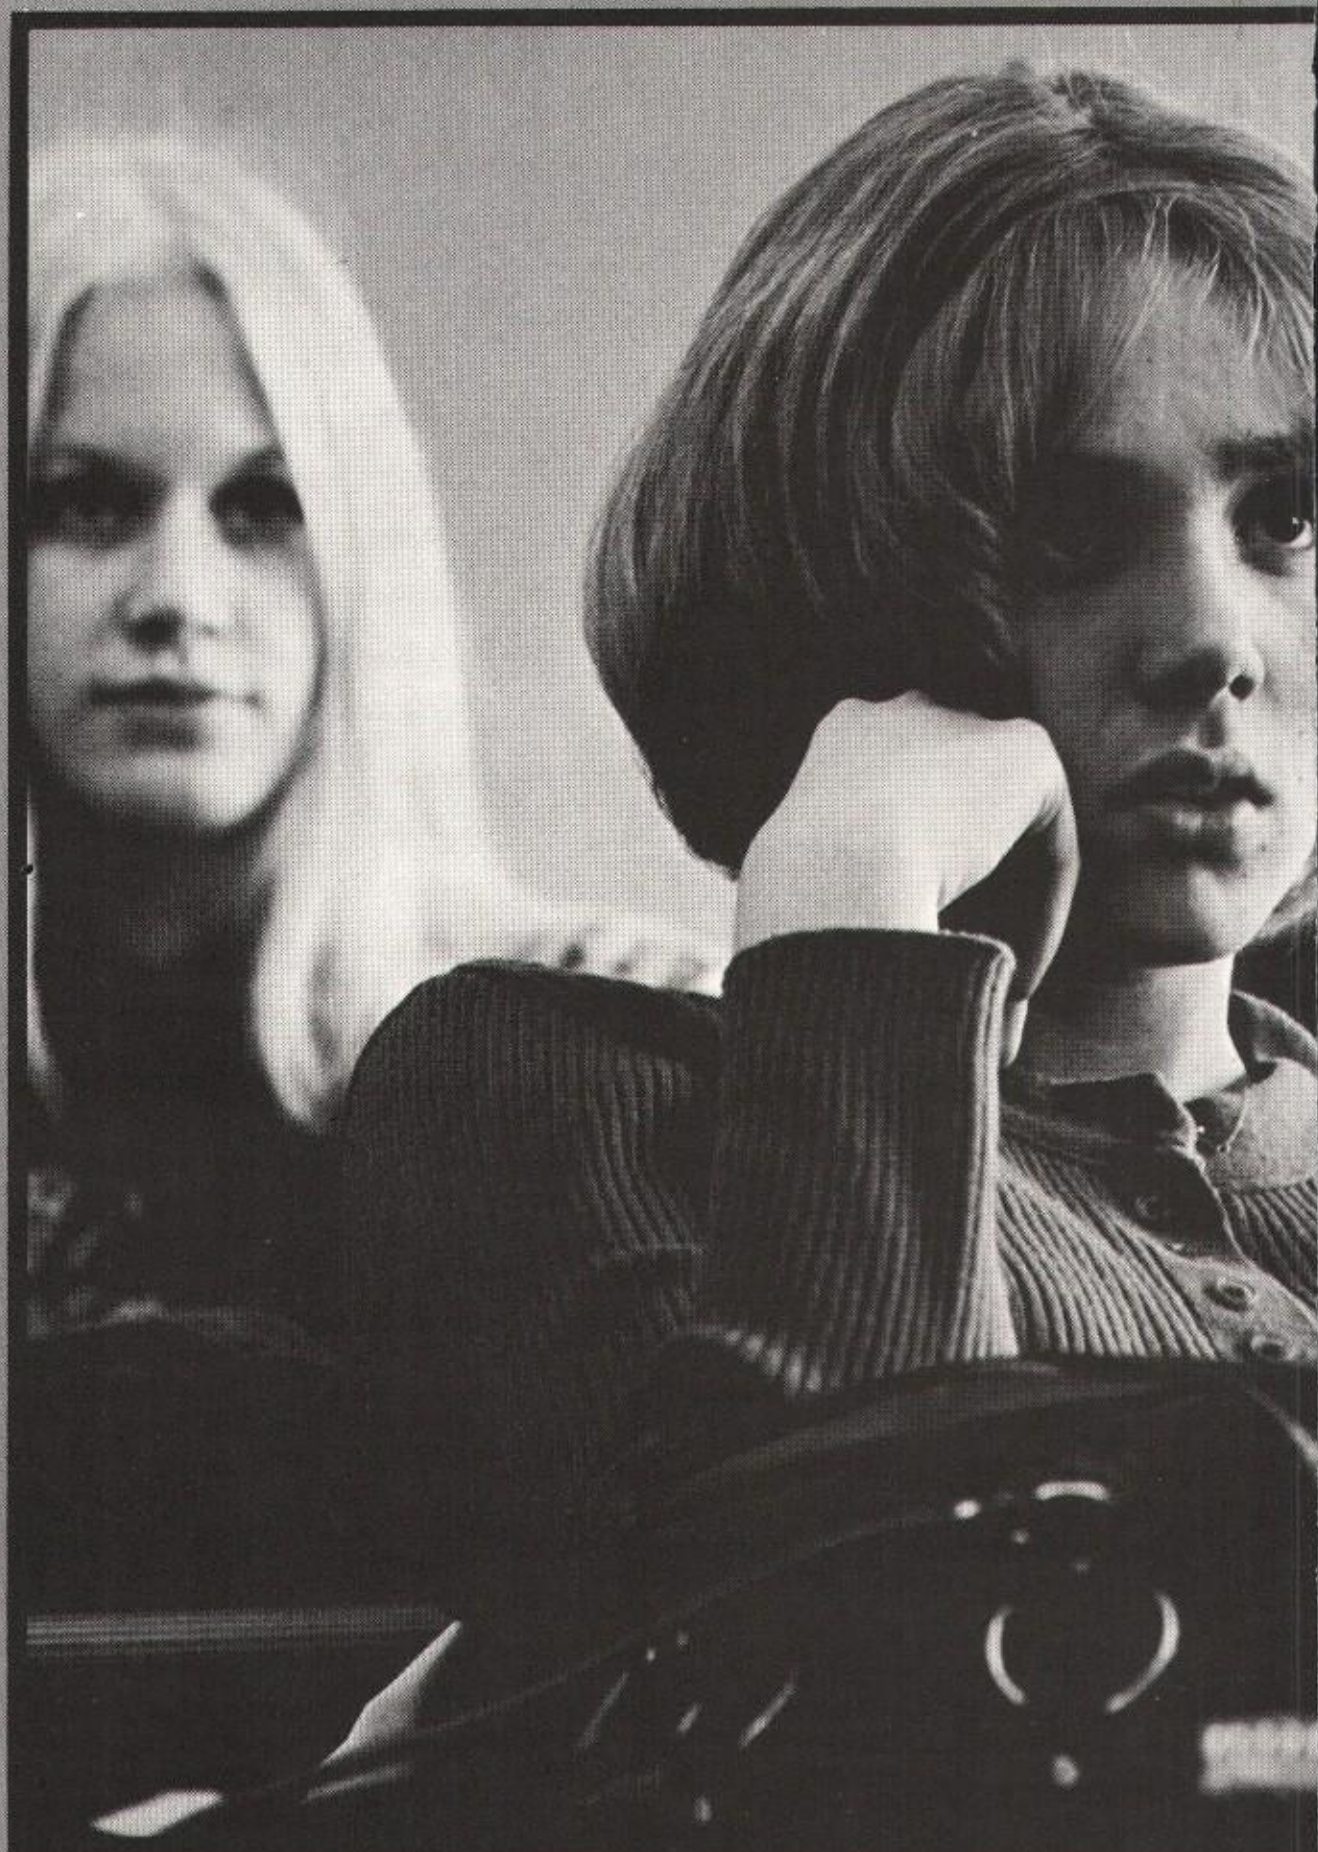

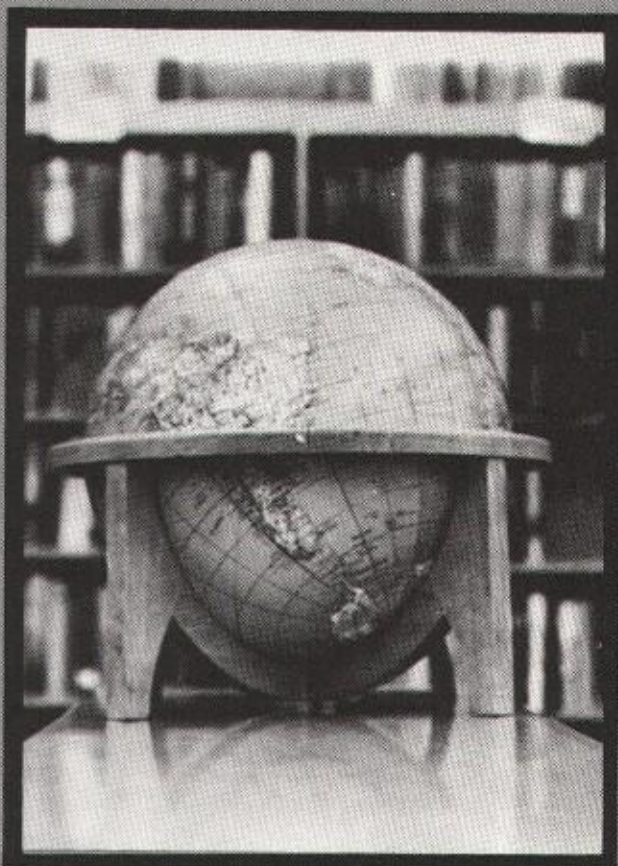

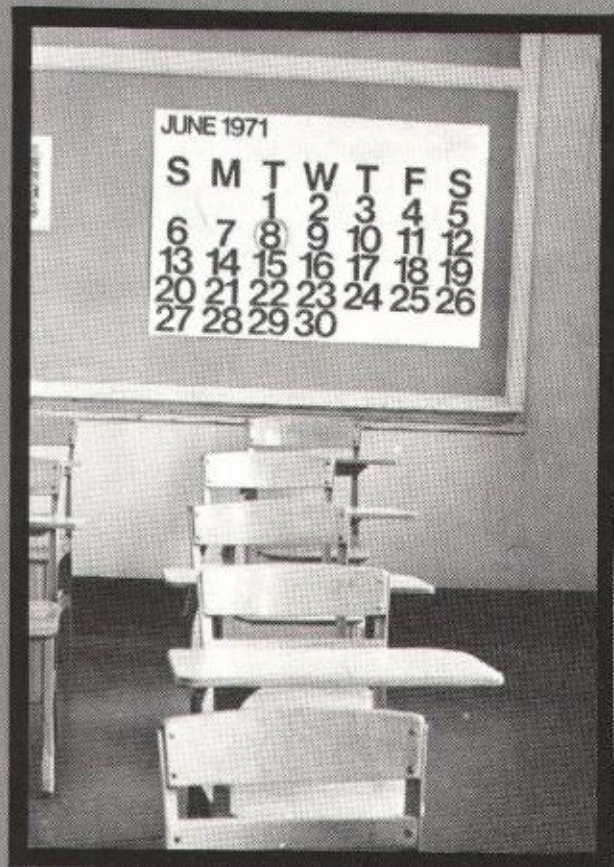

Senior Alan Montrose shows that practicing can often be as tough as a real match.

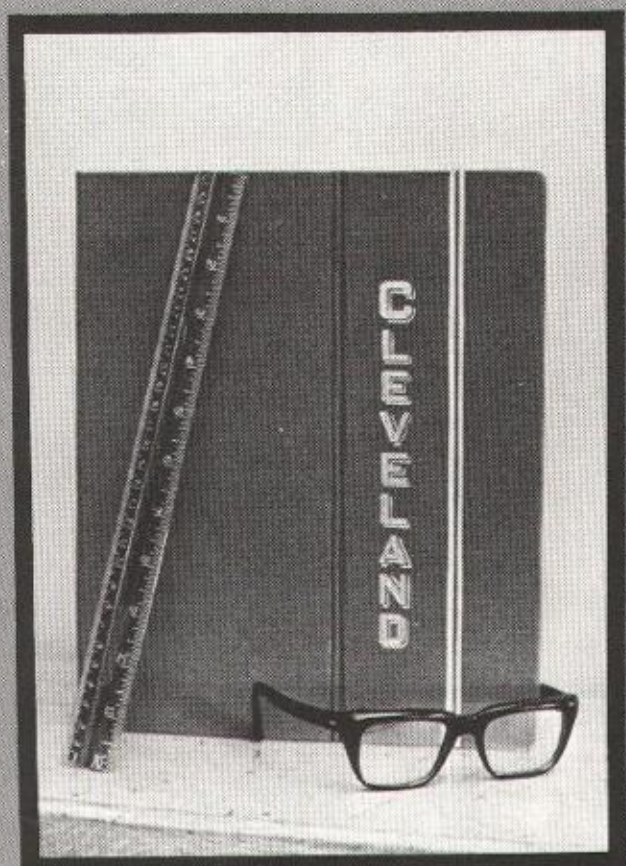

Senior Richard Layman practices his serve at the Kenilworth Park tennis courts.

Sophomore Sheryl Vingelen waits tensely, concentrating on her opponent's powerful serve.

CLASSES

Class of 1971

Various fates await seniors . . .

as they completed their final year at Cleveland. In September, the Senior Class cabinet, using an old radio show skit, presented the traditional Papoose Day assembly to welcome the Frosh. Collection boxes were seen in the front hall as the class of 1971 gathered toys, which they donated to the Toy and Joymakers during the Christmas season. Bottles were collected, baked goods sold and an after game dance in January featuring music by "Okra" were sponsored by the seniors. During February, they showed several short movies, described by Class President Bruce Howlett as "oldies but goodies", starring such greats as Andy Clyde, W. C. Fields and the Three Stooges. In April, the class sponsored "Don't Drink The Water", a humorous play. The annual potluck dinner and senior breakfast concluded the year's activities.

As freshmen, this class enjoyed the distinction of having more students run for class officer positions than any other class in the past four years. Cafeteria clean-up week was the most promoted activity during the class of 1971's sophomore year, as they spent the month of March cleaning up the Cleveland community.

In 1970, the Junior Prom was cancelled due to a lack of funds, but with the help of moneymaking projects, the Senior Prom was held May 8.

We individuals have memories . . .

many paths still to be chosen.

Class of 1972

"Cleveland's changing mood . . .

was exemplified by the 1971 Junior Class Cabinet," declared Duane Huskey, president of the graduating class of 1972.

In line with the changing times and attitudes, the Junior and Sophomore Cabinets, with the help of their advisors, jointly decided to plan for a Junior-Senior Prom in 1972, which would replace the traditional Senior Prom. "We believed the change will allow the class cabinets to function as service organizations as they were set up to be, instead of functioning as clubs, obsessed with earning money for proms," Huskey explained.

"This will also help the cabinets be more responsive and beneficial to the entire class, instead of to only those whose only desire in high school is going to the Junior and Senior Proms," he continued. "This decision will also remove much of the financial pressure which would have been exerted on the Senior Class Cabinet."

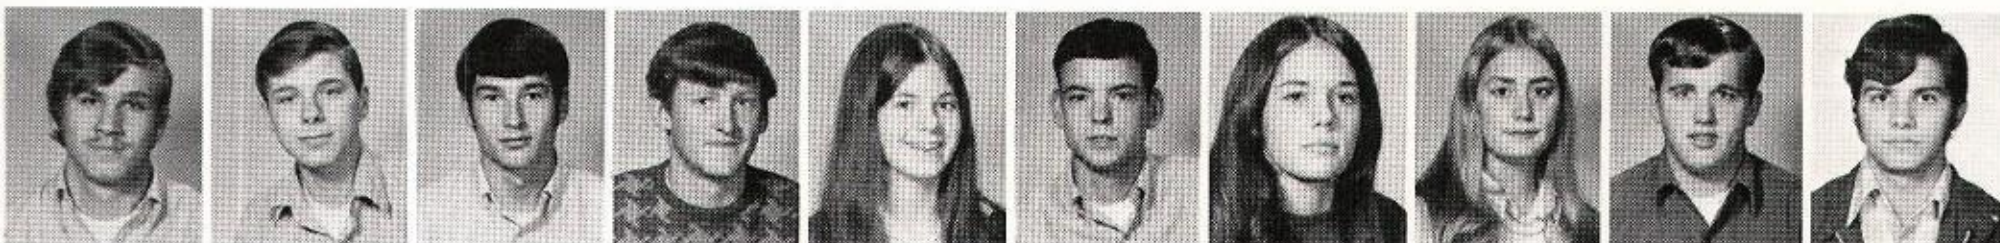

Besides determining this change for the 1972 Prom, the Junior Cabinet sponsored an after-game dance, featuring a Beaverton group, "Whitewater," held a few bake sales and organized a 10 minute Talent Show, in which members of the class performed skits.

Opportunity to purchase pins . . .

was offered to Sophomores for the first time at Cleveland. Hoping to start a tradition, the Cabinet members urged students to support their class. Bottle drives, sucker sales and bake sales were organized, helping to build the treasury to well over $250.

Sophomore Class Week, Jan. 11 through 15, saw a variety of activities such as an assembly featuring slides on litter and the noon movie, "Boy Who Cried Murder". The week was highlighted by an after-game dance with music provided by "White-water."

The Class of 1973 joined Cleveland's ecology drive by organizing Clean Up Week, Feb. 22 through 26, with custodians on "strike" until the end of all three lunch periods. The Cabinet's aim was to get students to concern themselves more with their environment and to take more definite actions towards improving it. Class President Kevin Sproul found the results disappointing, commenting, "There is a wide spread apathy throughout the school. Only a select few actively participate in anything, but we really do get alot done with those few people."

Trying something new, a folk dance was sponsored April 5, by the class with admission being glass jars. The jars were gathered to haul to a company that paid a penny per pound for glass that eventually was recycled.

the Freshman class got off to a slow start as the class projects and activities didn't begin until the first of February. The class was led by a small cabinet, composed of only four officers, because the class advisor, Mr. Oliver Phillips, felt that the offices of historian and publicity representative were unnecessary. Only nine candidates ran for the offices of president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer when the elections were held in the middle of December.

The Cabinet organized and encouraged their classmates to participate in several money making projects during Freshman Class Week, March 1-5. An after-game dance, featuring the "Soul Masters" highlighted the week in which the Frosh sponsored two bake sales and a sucker sale.

The freshmen continued their money making activities during April and May as they planned another bake sale, a taffy sale, and a car wash, all to help their goal of $200 for their treasury.

Class cards were not sold because "the Cabinet felt they would not be useful because we started so late," explained Debe Douglass, treasurer. In April the Cabinet undertook a traditional freshman class project as they drew up a class constitution to establish guidelines for the next three years.

Ending

as a year of "do your own thing" among the students at Cleveland. The student body, rather than acting as one unit, consisted of many groups attending and planning different functions which appealed to some people some of the time, no people some of the time, all the people some of the time, but, rarely, all the people all of the time. Realizing this, it was rather difficult to choose a theme for the 1970-71 LEGEND. Choosing "unity" seemed rather ridiculous, so a more appropriate theme that came to mind was "individuality".

We had a young staff this year with only three returning members. I thought it was really going to be a hard year with such an inexperienced group, especially when some started asking, "What's copy?" and "How can I get my assignment in on time when I don't have any pictures?" However, to my surprise, it went very smoothly.

I know there were times that room 368 looked more like a zoo than a journalism room, but there were many hours of hard work put into the school's two publications, the LEGEND and the TOMAHAWK. Writing, copy, meeting deadlines, and fighting headaches accompanies the responsibility of designing and producing a complete yearbook. There were many problems to be faced, especially with our unpredictable CHS. Activities were planned and postponed at the last minute, leaving us to find or fill a space in the layout of the book. What chaos!

As a whole, though, the year went very well. I never could've asked for a more cooperative staff, as everyone contributed his share. Our advisor, Jan Watt, would've been impossible to top, both as an advisor and friend.

Thank you for letting us bring you this book.
